China Roasts UN:

U.S., Russia Plot To Control Globe

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China today accused the United States and Russia of controlling the United Nations in a joint attempt to dominate the world.

Mrs. Moran

Cleared But Jobless

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—An 18-month suspension against a part-time social worker whose outspoken criticism of British Columbia government welfare services caused a province-wide controversy, has been lifted.

But Mrs. Bridget Moran said Friday that while she has been informed that the suspension is lifted, she has also been told that there are no vacancies for her at the Prince George welfare office where she was employed previously.

She said she received her notice by letter.

A MISTAKE?
The letter had made no mention of its being necessary to cease her criticism of the department and she said she will continue to make statements about the welfare department if she thinks it necessary.

She said she feels that the lack of a job in the Prince George office was a mistake. There had been an understanding that when the suspension was lifted she would go back to work.

In January, 1964, Mrs. Moran sent an open letter to Premier Bennett in which she criticized the lack of social workers and the lack of treatment facilities in the province, particularly in the northern areas.

The charge was made in an editorial published in Peking's Peoples Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist Party.

Observing the 35th anniversary of the world body, China said it was being dominated mainly by the United States and the only way to cure its ills was through complete reorganization. (See also Page 3.)

UNTRUSTWORTHY BODY

The editorial said "more and more people have realized that the United Nations is untrustworthy and unreliable because it is dominated by the U.S."

"However, the Khrushchev revisionists have deliberately been trying to cover up the truth and spreading illusions about the United Nations," it said.

"They praise it to the skies, saying that it is an 'organ of equal international co-operation designed to preserve and strengthen peace,' and that it 'has become a stern tribunal for trying culprits of colonial adventures,'" the paper said.

"Why are they so fond of the United Nations controlled by Washington?" it asked.

POLITICAL TOOL

"The reason is simply that they want the U.N. to be a centre for political transactions between the Soviet Union and the U.S. and a tool for paving the way for Soviet-U.S. co-operation to dominate the world."

The editorial noted that in 1950 the Soviet Union voted for the U.S. proposal to use the UN banner and organize a UN force.

Kanester Guilty Of Raping Coed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawrence Kenneth Kanester was found guilty Friday by an Assize Court jury of the rape of an 18-year-old University of Victoria student Jan. 20, 1964.

Kanester, 24, will be sentenced Tuesday by Mr. Justice A. G. Rutten. He had previously been convicted of the same offence and sentenced to 10 years, but won his appeal for a new trial two months ago.

Workmen rush to complete parley palace before blast

Pre-Summit Bomb

ALGIER (AP) — A violent explosion Friday night wrecked part of the main electric power relay station in the building erected for the Afro-Asian summit conference.

A government spokesman said two workmen were injured in the explosion. Unconfirmed reports said the explosion was caused by a bomb which killed at least five persons.

These reports could not be checked because the conference area at the Club des Pins, on a sand dune overlooking the Mediterranean 22 miles west of Algiers, was staged by armed troops and riot police who barred access to all outsiders.

Violence at the conference site, anti-government demonstrations downtown Friday night and a sense of general unrest made it seem more and more probable that the summit meeting will at least be postponed.

Hundreds of demonstrators marched into the heart of the city at the evening rush hour, shouting "down with dictatorship" and demanding restoration to power of deposed president Ahmed Ben Bella.

Motorcycle police drove head-on into the columns of marchers and others fired repeatedly into the air and threw tear gas in an effort to put down the latest demonstration.

B.C. Ship Hit-Run By Soviet 'Mother'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver fishing skipper Friday charged a Russian ship with hit-and-run of the high seas.

Laili Tuvik, 61-year-old skipper of the halibut Pacific Wave, said a Russian fishing fleet mother ship rammed his vessel in the Gulf of Alaska while he was at anchor and moved off without offering assistance.

DAMAGE $5,000

He said everyone on the Pacific Wave had turned in for sleep and the ship was riding at anchor when the Russian mother ship's flaring bow sliced into the halibut's wheelhouse and cabin housing, causing about $5,000 worth of damage.

He said the Russian vessel was underway but not under her own power. She was being pushed by a catcher boat.

WITHOUT SHOES

Tuvik described how he ran around the deck in his underwear, without shoes on and there was a Russian standing in the bow of the ship. The Russian hollered: "Must get away, you get away, our engines are stopped."

The Vancouver skipper said crew members of the Pacific Wave, awakened by the impact, jotted down numbers painted on the Russian ship's side. Capt. Tuvik said his insurance company has agreed to pay for the damage to the Pacific Wave and will try to collect from the Russians.

Latins Clash 13 Killed

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Thirteen or more people were reported killed Friday in a clash between armed civilians and troops loyal to the civilian military junta in San Francisco de Macoris, third largest Dominican city.

Commonwealth:

FOUR POINTS FOR PEACE

- Stop bombing
- Halt Red help
- Ceasefire
- Peace parley

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth proposed Friday a four-point peace plan for Viet Nam which would end American bombing of North Viet Nam and movement of troops and supplies from North Viet Nam to the south.

In sequence, the third point would provide a ceasefire and the fourth a peace conference. One aim of that conference would be to negotiate removal of all foreign—including American—troops from Viet Nam.

Other aims would be restoration of the unity of Viet Nam and its establishment as a neutral state. (See also Page 3.)

INCLUDE CHINA

In a communique ending nine days of talks, the prime minister and presidents of the Commonwealth also urged ways should be found to associate China with future discussions on disarmament.

Before the communique was issued, Britain's Prime Minister Wilson indicated the Commonwealth's proposed Viet Nam peace mission—one of the major undertakings of the conference—might not even start its planned round-the-world flight.

He told a press conference no decision had been made on whether the four-man mission will go to Saigon and Washington if Hanoi refused it admission.

China and Russia have already barred the door to the commonwealth envoys and the

'Wilson Can't Talk Peace'

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Worker has published an interview with North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh saying British Prime Minister Wilson "cannot engage in peace negotiations" on Viet Nam.

"Mr. Wilson has not correctly carried out his obligations as co-chairman of the 1954 Geneva conference on Viet Nam. He has tried to support United States imperialist aggression in Viet Nam," Minh is quoted.

Officer Convicted Refused Viet Post

NAMA, Okinawa (AP)—A U.S. Army general court-martial board Friday convicted Capt. Richard B. Steinke, 37, of Misconduct, Wm., of refusing to join a special forces commando guerrilla unit in South Viet Nam last January.

The argument of the lieutenant was that he disagreed with U.S. policy in Viet Nam and that the war there "is not worth one American life."

The board, headed by Col. John Boebe of Los Angeles, deliberated less than an hour.

When the board's verdict to consider sentence, expected some time Saturday, it could sentence the young officer to dismissal from the U.S. military service, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and five years at hard labor as the maximum.

Saigon Curfew Late, 29 Dead

Bombs Blast Restaurant Streets Slick with Blood

SAIGON (AP)—Two powerful terrorist bombs exploded in quick succession beside a crowded floating restaurant on the Saigon River Friday night, killing at least 29 persons and wounding about 100. Five or six Americans and a Frenchman were among the dead.

Witnesses had believed the death toll might reach 50. The terrorist strike, staged about 500 yards from the U.S. Embassy, was the bloodiest of its kind ever seen in this South

Vietnamese capital at any time during the Vietnamese war.

The blasts boomed from the shore about 8:15 p.m., slashing across the luxuriously-appointed decks of the restaurant, the My Canh, telling strutters on the riverside boulevard and smashing windows as far as two blocks away.

It was a violent sequel to a Communist announcement, broadcast six hours earlier by Radio Hanoi, that the Viet Cong guerrillas had killed a captive

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist Viet Cong guerrillas attacked and overran a government installation and an artillery position today, only 12 miles west of Saigon.

Observers said it seemed possible the Communists were opening a major offensive.

BOMBER STRIKE

Among other developments of the day:

In the air war, a U.S. spokesman announced U.S. Air Force jet bombers struck at an ammunition depot and the Na San airfield northwest of Hanoi and destroyed buildings at both points in North Viet Nam.

A dispatch from Hanoi by the Soviet news agency Tass declared that capital and drove anti-aircraft fire. It said that, in this and other action, five planes were downed. There was no independent confirmation.

LOSERS DENIED

In Washington, the Pentagon denied any American planes were lost over Hanoi. A spokesman declined to comment when asked whether American air

Killer Whale Slips Through Nets

By IAN SMITH

Charlie White hasn't got his killer whale—yet, but he's still hoping.

Mr. White arrived home empty-handed from Nama Friday, impressed by the whale which three commercial fishermen have trapped in nets against a reef near the upmost canning community.

A second whale, the smaller of the two, escaped Thursday night.

Mr. White, owner of Victoria's Undersea Gardens, had hoped to purchase one of the whales for his establishment—but he has his problems.

The fishermen are holding out for more money—but they're worried about the possibility of a second escape, and may change their minds at any moment.

If they can hold out for a week or so, they can practically name their price from representatives of Marineland of the Pacific at Los Angeles. If they sell right now, Dr. Murray Newman of the Vancouver aquarium (which last year caught Moby Doll) is ready with outstretched arms but considerably less money.

He could take charge of the killer with virtually no advance preparation.

In between stands Mr. White, who needs a bit of time—but not as much as Marineland—to get into the

"Nobody knows what will happen," said Mr. White as he stepped off the plane at 7 p.m. Friday. "Nothing was concluded."

"It's just a matter of how much the fishermen want to gamble. Marineland is ready to take the whales—and money seems to be no object—but they need a week or so to get things in order."

"It's difficult for me to match their bids, but at the same time, the fishermen are worried about letting their last whale escape, too."

He said Marineland had offered "more than $20,000" for the beast, which is about 20 feet long and perhaps 3,000 pounds in weight.

It is trapped by a series of nets strung off a reef.

He thinks the little whale escaped during high tide, when the net perhaps floated off the bottom at one corner.

The one remaining impressed him plenty, however.

"It's really something, that whale. It's one thing to sit down here and talk about it—but to go up there and see that magnificent animal, a dorsal fin four feet high."

Whether they get the whale or not, one thing is decided: they are going ahead with construction of a suitable pen at the Undersea Gardens.

"We have to have the pen ready," said Mr. White, "if not for this one, for something else. You can never tell when something like this is going to happen."

Four Points for Viet Nam Peace

North Vietnamese government in Hanoi has unofficially rejected it.

Wilson also announced Britain will be ready to call a Rhodesia constitutional conference "if after a reasonable time we have not reached an acceptable solution."

Prime Minister Pearson, in a brief comment to reporters after the conference ended, called it the largest, most important and in many ways the most difficult the Commonwealth had ever undertaken.

Other highlights of the 6,000-word communique included:

Caribbean — The conference expressed the hope that peace would be restored in the Dominican Republic within the united nations charter on the basis of self-determination.

Malaysia — The Commonwealth leaders recognized and supported Malaysia's right to defend its sovereign independence and territorial integrity.

Cyprus — The prime ministers reaffirmed their full support for the United Nations Security Council resolutions on Cyprus.

Portuguese Africa — The meeting expressed support for the application of the principle of self-determination to the inhabitants of Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea.

South Africa — "The prime ministers reaffirmed their condemnation of the policy of apartheid practised by the government of the republic of South Africa and unanimously called upon South Africa to bring the practice to an end."

On Viet Nam, the conference communique said the commonwealth mission should be guided by these ultimate objectives during its consultations with the main parties:

1. "A suspension of all United States air attacks on North Viet Nam.
2. "A North Vietnamese undertaking to prevent the movement of any military forces or assistance or material to South Viet Nam.
3. "A total ceasefire on all sides to enable a conference to be convened to seek a peaceful solution."

The communique said the objectives of such a peace conference might be to:

- End the war in Viet Nam.
- Secure the withdrawal of all foreign military presence from Viet Nam and the neutralization of the area.

- Establish, for a period, an international peace force, under the auspices of the Geneva Agreement, to safeguard peace in Viet Nam.
- Establish principles for the eventual unification of the country through free and internationally supervised elections.

The communique said there was an inherent risk of the Viet Nam conflict escalating into a wider war.

GRAVE DOUBTS

For this reason there were grave doubts about an early or final solution by military means.

"A comprehensive ceasefire and a conference of all the parties directly involved in the situation seem to provide the essential precondition to the solution of the problem," it added.

One of the 21 Commonwealth leaders—President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania—disassociated himself from the Viet Nam part of the communique.

At his press conference, Wilson stressed that the mission would not be very productive unless we could get both points of view.

BRITISH FLEDGE

Britain also pledged in the communique that it would continue to work for constitutional development based on the principle of African majority rule, immediate improvement in the African's political status and the progressive elimination of racial discrimination.

On another touchy topic, the influx of immigrants into Britain from other Commonwealth countries, the communique said the conference recognized that the extent of immigration into Britain was entirely a matter for the British government to determine.

IMMIGRATION CONTROLS

"The hope was expressed that in operating such immigration controls as they might think necessary, the British government would continue to give preferential treatment to Commonwealth citizens. They welcomed the assurance of the British prime minister that there would be no differentiation in any restrictions on account of color or creed," the communique said.

On disarmament, the communique said the leaders "felt that the importance of a solution of the disarmament problem had been underlined by the fact that . . . China had exploded two nuclear devices and had clearly demonstrated their intention to develop nuclear weapons."

The leaders expressed their determination to give urgent and wholehearted support to measures to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The communique said the conference hoped that many of Britain's remaining dependent territories would achieve independence in the next three years — including Basutoland, Bechuanaland, British Guiana, Swaziland and the South Arabian Federation, and also some or all of the east Caribbean territories whether in a federation or separately.

craft had flown over that city.

On South Viet Nam's battlefront, U.S. spokesmen reported three Americans killed by the Viet Cong, over a 24-hour period. The deaths raised to 427 the toll of U.S. combat dead in South Viet Nam.

FOOD AND DEATH

The terrorist bomb strike left the My Canh's decks and the boulevard pavement slick with blood.

Dining on choice Chinese food and French wine aboard the gently-bobbing My Canh, were nearly 100 South Vietnamese and Americans.

They were prime targets of the two explosions, which left both decks a smoking, smouldering mass of broken buildings, smashed tables and splintered crockery. Others hit were on the boulevard nearby, seeking relief from the heat in early night breezes.

Presumably both bombs were timed devices, set to go off simultaneously. Whoever planted them seemed to have escaped. There was no indication of any arrests.

The attack was the third major terrorist thrust within the capital in the last three months. A car-borne explosive killed 20 persons, including two Americans, at the U.S. Embassy March 30. A time charge set in the civilian terminal of Saigon's Airport wounded 46 persons, including 24 U.S. soldiers, June 16.

The riverfront attack came on the first night of a new "anti-luxury curfew" decreed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's new military government to cut down the capital's conspicuous night life. The curfew was due to start at 11 p.m., one hour later for some reason than was announced in the original order Thursday.

Streets have been swarming for two days with South Vietnamese military police, marines and other guards, especially alert against terrorism.

MOST WHITE

Of the 28 dead recorded in an interim check, 17 were Caucasians and 12 were Vietnamese — seven men and five women.

In North Viet Nam, the Na San airfield and the Ban Phung Hay ammunition depot were targets of continuing strikes by American fighter-bombers in the Son La area northwest of Hanoi.

A spokesman said 18 planes rained 30 tons of bombs on the airfield, 115 miles west northwest of Hanoi, cratering runways, destroying two buildings and heavily damaging a fuel dump.

Your Good Health

Can't Agree on the Tint? You May Be Color Blind

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD
Dear Dr. Molner: Please settle an argument between my husband and me. Which sex is most susceptible to color blindness?—MRS. H. S.

Men. However, SOME women are color blind.

So, if you and your husband argue whether the new draperies are beautiful reddish heliotrope, or are just a dismal gray, because one of you is color blind and won't admit it—I can't decide the fight.

TESTS ARE EASY

You, madam, have percentages on your side, but you still might be color blind and your husband not. The only way is to have some rather easy tests which will tell who does and who doesn't see colors the way they really are.

If, however, you are arguing over whether the mother or father is responsible for a child being color blind, that becomes what used to be called a Mexican standoff. You can't settle it without knowing the hereditary background of the parents.

A father cannot pass color blindness along to his son. Only the mother can do that.

But if a father is color blind, he will pass the trait on to all his daughters. They may not be color blind (unless their mother also carries the trait or is color blind herself) but they will carry the hereditary trait.

It's something like hemophilia, a hereditary disease which is even more closely related to sex. Boy babies may have it; girl babies rarely do. Yet the trait can be carried by either sex, and transmitted to children.

MEXICAN STANDOFF

In the case of hemophilia, the boys, having the disease, often do not live long enough to grow up and have children. Girls, having the trait but not the disease, do grow up and have children.

If male and female choose to argue with each other, for whatever pleasure it gives 'em, who am I to protest? But if either one tries to "prove" that the other sex causes all the trouble, it won't work. It will be, today, tomorrow, and forever, a Mexican standoff.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am considering surgery to have my crooked nose straightened. What does the operation involve? How do you contact a doctor to perform it? What risk is involved? What is the length of disability? What are the after-effects? What is the cost?—E.S.D.

I don't like to be blunt, but you haven't been considering this. You've been dreaming about it. If you have some hundreds of dollars to try this, you can well afford to go to your family doctor and discuss the matter seriously.

Note to C.H.: Yes, hepatitis can be fatal. It's a dangerous disease. But vastly more people recover from it than die from it.

for "aggression against Leopoldville, Congo."

LEGAL INSTITUTION

"Since their assumption of office, the new Soviet leaders have zealously been working with the United States to set up a standing UN force, in other words, to apply elsewhere the UN practice of intervening . . . and turn it into a legal institution," the editorial said.

It claimed that the United Nations had gone from "bad to worse" as a result of collaboration between Russia and America to use it as a means to oppose revolutionary struggles.

"What it requires is adequate clinical treatment—a thorough reorganization," the editorial said.

The communist newspaper ascribed the United States of boring from U.N. membership those countries it does not like—especially China.

"For 15 years under U.S. manipulation, the U.N. has obstructed the restoration to China of its lawful rights by making the Chiang Kai-Shek group occupy China's seat," it said.

"In the 20 years of its existence, the United Nations, dominated by the United States, has piled up one mistake upon another, done bad things and left behind a long disreputable record."

Don't Let Any More Suffer Sergeant's Mother Pleads

PERRYVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — The mother of Sgt. Harold Bennett, executed by the Viet Cong, said Friday she hopes the war in Viet Nam can be ended so other mothers will be spared her suffering.

Mrs. Pauline Bennett still held out a mother's hope that there was a mistake.

"The adjutant-general said this report cannot be verified," she said.

She referred to a telegram from Maj.-Gen. J. C. Lambert, the army adjutant-general, who said the report came through Communist sources and was not verified.

He added he was asking the army commander in Viet Nam for any information available and promised to notify Mrs. Bennett of any word.

"My deepest sympathy is extended to you in this time of uncertainty and anguish," he said.

Bennett, 25, was captured in the battle for the South Viet Nam village of Binh Gia last December.

An older brother, Paul, said his mother realized the report most likely is true, but being a mother she held a "small glimmer of hope."

"There's been an awful lot of propaganda from over there," he said. "The only thing we've got to go on are reports from Hanoi radio that were heard somewhere else."

A sister, Mrs. Harold Rinehart, also tried to be optimistic.

"Of course we are holding out hope," she said. "All we've got is hope. But all this has hit us, we just don't know."

SON HOME

Another son, Dickie, is an army paratrooper stationed in the Dominican Republic. But the army sent word he would be brought home.

In Saigon, U.S. embassy spokesmen denounced the execution as a "wanton act of murder."

Red China Slams Door

PEKING (Reuters) — China officially locked the door on the proposed Commonwealth peace mission on Viet Nam Friday with a stern note refusing to receive it in Peking.

The note accused Britain of heading a "peace talks plot."

The message was handed to the British charge d'affaires here within 48 hours of Russia's official rejection of the mission.

It raised fears for the lives of about a dozen other U.S. soldiers and civilians held captive by the guerrillas. A number of U.S. airmen also have been reported captured after being shot down over North Viet Nam. Peking, Moscow or Hanoi to seek an opening for peace in Viet Nam. Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, has unofficially refused to welcome the mission.

Hoever, observers here said the Chinese note, by concentrating its fire on Britain, did not completely rule out an alternative mission.

The note said that by using the name of the Commonwealth, Britain is "rendering yet another service to the U.S. aggressors."

The note charged Britain has never denounced U.S. "acts of aggression" but has given the U.S. full backing.

Britain, as co-chairman with Russia of the Geneva conference on Indochina, has "totally violated and breached" the Geneva agreements by taking action in the name of the Commonwealth which is not directly related to the Viet Nam issue, it said.

Observers here said the note avoided embarrassing the Afro-Asian members of the Commonwealth, some of whom were reported to be discussing alternative approaches to China over Viet Nam.

The note declared that "the sole correct way of settling the Viet Nam question is that the United States must immediately stop its aggression, withdraw all its armed forces from South Viet Nam and leave the Vietnamese people to settle the Viet Nam problem for themselves."

Appeal to UN

Asian Conflict Menaces Man

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Johnson, reaffirming U.S. faith in the UN on its 20th birthday, appealed to its members Friday to try to bring the Communists to the conference table to end the war in Viet Nam.

He told a commemorative UN convocation that "clear and present dangers in Southeast Asia cast their shadow across the path of all mankind."

Johnson said every effort by the U.S. and others to negotiate an end to the warfare had been "blocked by willful aggressors contemptuous of the opinion and will of mankind."

PEACE BLOCKED

"Therefore," he said, "today I put to this world assembly the facts of aggression, the right of a people to be free from attack, the interest of every member in safety against molestation, the duty of this organization to reduce the dangers to peace and the unhesitating readiness of the United States to find a peaceful solution."

"I call upon this gathering of the nations of the world to use their influence, individually and collectively, to bring to the tables those who seem determined to make war."

SUPPORT FOR ALL

"We will support your efforts as we will support effective action by any agent or agency of these United Nations."

The most elementary UN principle, Johnson said, "is that neighbors must not attack their neighbors." In southeast Asia "that principle is under challenge."

PEACE BLOCKED

Declaring aggressors were blocking the processes of peaceful settlement, Johnson said:

"Bilateral diplomacy has yielded no results, the machinery of the Geneva conference has been paralyzed, resort to the Security Council has been rejected, an appeal for unconditional discussion was met with contempt, a pause in bombing operations was called an insult and the concern for peace of the Commonwealth prime ministers has received little response."

FIRST PURPOSE

The president noted the "agenda of peace is not a single item."

"The first purpose of the United Nations is peacekeeping. The first work of all members now must be peacekeeping. For this organization exists to resolve quarrels outside the confines of its headquarters—not to prolong quarrels within."

PLEDGE FORCES

"Where there are disputes, let us try to find the means to resolve them—through whatever machinery is possible."

"Where the United Nations requires readily available peace forces in hours and days—not

Better in Dollars

EVEN THOUGH Canada has pledged $4,000,000 and Britain $10,000,000 to help the United Nations over its present financial crisis the international body still stands in debt to the amount of nearly $100,000,000.

In the main the deficit has resulted from the UN's peacekeeping operations in the Congo, the Middle East and Cyprus. The costs of these police actions, all of which were approved by the General Assembly, were not added to the normal annual assessments of member nations but were calculated as a separate item for which all governments were billed on a proportionate basis.

Unhappily a number of nations, among them such Charter members as Russia, France and Nationalist China, have not only failed to meet their obligations but have taken the stand that they are not bound by a decision reached by the General Assembly.

And, sadly, their example has been followed by a large number of smaller nations who misinterpret the actions of the larger countries as a fine display of political independence.

Oddly enough many of the governments who are refusing to pay their share and thus enable the UN to continue to play a more practical role in maintaining peace in a strife-torn world are those whose demands of the UN are loudest.

If the UN cannot meet its debts it stands in the greatest danger of being unable to reconvene the General Assembly in August and becoming little but an organization in name only.

That the situation was discussed at length and with sympathy at the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting in London this week, however, indicates that the seriousness of the position is at last being recognized. The example set by the senior Commonwealth nations in supporting the UN at that time may do much to offset the damage done to the cause by Russia, France and Nationalist China.

If the United Nations cannot continue to operate as a solvent and practical international organization, there can be little hope for any nation—large or small—in the years to come.

And unless this is clearly understood and acted upon by all member nations international unity can never be achieved. If the peoples of the world desire peace they must be prepared to pay for it—but better in dollars than in blood.

The 3-U Fund Drive

THE DECISION of the 3-U Fund's Vancouver Island Management Committee to split the Greater Victoria campaign drive into two phases with a six-month recess in between may not be the most ideal way to conduct an appeal for public financial support but it is the wisest move that could be made at the present time.

By delaying until January all future calls upon likely prospects who have not already been approached, 3-U fund workers will not only be clearing the way for the annual Community Chest campaign which takes place in the Victoria area between July and September—thus avoiding any duplication of appeals and snags of conflicting interests—but will also secure the opportunity of consolidating their progress and enjoying a short respite from the demanding and often thankless chore they have taken upon themselves.

Another benefit accruing from the postponement is that the adverse publicity and continuing misfortune—all of which was regrettable and most of it unnecessary—which has surrounded the fund drive to date should have run the course and been forgotten by the new year.

To date the 3-U fund drive has been attended by considerable success throughout Vancouver Island—a tribute to the canvassers and the general public alike. By the end of July at least $1,000,000 will have been collected in cash or in pledges throughout the Island, of which $815,000 has already been confirmed in the Victoria area.

Thus two-thirds of the overall goal for Vancouver Island will have already been reached, leaving the remainder to be found in the early months of next year—a not too impossible objective to reach in a community well aware of the importance of building and maintaining a first class institution of higher learning in this part of British Columbia.

The pause in proceedings may also give many individuals who have displayed some reluctance to contribute to 3-U campaign time to reconsider their position by coming to the realization that even a small contribution on their part ensures a greater future for both our youth and our nation.

Village Appeal

TODAY TAG-SELLERS will be active all over Vancouver Island in support of a project unfamiliar to many. It is the Children's International Summer Village.

A few words about its aims and organization may prompt sympathy and support.

Already 40 nations are associated in the scheme which has been in operation for 14 years and is still expanding. Its aims, mainly, are to foster a closer understanding between peoples through the association of youth—11-year-old boys and girls selected for their promise of leadership, intelligence and good character.

There have been 65 of these international villages in the past, in Norway, Sweden, England, Germany, Austria, Finland, Denmark, France, Holland, Egypt, Guatemala, Japan and Canada.

For the future it is hoped that the children who have been brought together in their tender years will be reunited at a more senior level in a similar international atmosphere. It is still a small operation but it has a sound foundation upon which a truly imposing structure could be built.

The Vancouver Island summer village will be located on the Shawigan Lake site of the Strathcona School for Girls. There will be 40 guests, four from each of 10 countries, including four Vancouver Island children.

With each group is a counsellor. Each of the participating countries pays the cost of transport. The host area maintains the village for its month of activity, from July 15 to August 15. There are contributions from municipalities, but the public is asked to support the scheme as well.

Man's Urge into Space

The Stars Are Calling

By R. J. CHILDENHOPE

THE rationale for the space race is military advantage. Neither side knows what military profit might accrue from being first to the moon, but the race is on.

It is war in another guise. The reasons—prestige, territorial acquisition, military advantage—are traditional. The benefits—full employment, economic boom, scientific advancement—are also the same.

Billions are being spent, but at the moment militaryists of both sides are vague about their extraterrestrial objectives.

Present-day satellites are seen by the generals as replacements for the U-2 spy planes; next generation satellites as space platforms for launching nuclear weapons.

The problem of getting men to the moon and then home again appears formidable, so formidable that many people question the need to send fragile humans into the bleak unknown of space.

Why not just machines? There are limits to electronic automation. The more integrated the space package, the more the earth environment proliferates. The number of black boxes and technicians to monitor them becomes unwieldy. The ability of scientists to interpret all the data becomes doubtful.

The human brain is the best miniaturized computer known. A machine cannot reason, or make decisions, or change its mind. The intelligent human can. Scientists feel sure that man will survive in space. It takes a human to adapt to the unexpected situation—a machine never will.

As for the problems of keeping people alive, scientists are confident that they will be solved. Life support systems, space capsule construction, diet, bodily functions, health and well-being can all be worked out here on earth.

At the moment, the physiological problems appear to have dwindled to two: the effect of prolonged weightlessness on the cardiovascular system; and the unknown effects of solar radiation.

Both of these problems require research in space itself. Fields of solar particle radiation—such as the Van Allen belt—can be detected and charted by satellite patrols. Space travellers will require protective shielding; just how much is not known. The shifting of these fields may be to space travel what the shifting tide was to the day of sail.

As for weightlessness, it is appearing as a bogeyman worry. Fears of disorientation, hallucinations, heart weakening, muscle atrophy, are being laid to rest with actual experience.

The concern now is withdrawal of calcium from the bones and blood pooling in the legs causing impaired circulation. Something similar to the anti-G suits worn by military jet pilots may be the answer.

It is not the ability of humans to survive in space, it is human reliability here on earth that is the worry. The success or failure of a space shot depends on the skill and integrity of many thousands of industrial workers.

Reliability standards are fantastically high—electronic parts for space capsules must be so reliable that a TV set made with them would operate for a thousand years not only without repair but without adjustment.

Following Project Mercury—the successful manned orbital flight of two years ago—a report on manufacturing, inspection and design procedures said: "Spare parts were delivered that were 50 per cent defective..."

By R. J. CHILDENHOPE

Some space capsules had more than 500 defects, including batteries with holes in them, electronic parts improperly soldered, valves improperly installed, pressure regulators that were not cleaned and astronaut's oxygen and water supplies that were contaminated."

Medical knowledge of the healthy human is paradoxically limited. Medicine has concentrated on the clinical patient and ignored the normal. Little is known of the parameters of physical tolerance.

To close this gap, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is spending millions in research contracts to universities and industry for specialized studies in biotechnology and human factors engineering.

From the mechanical point of view, the problems of the U.S. space program are mainly three: present rocket motors lack sufficient power to throw worthwhile packages into orbit; a lightweight atomic propulsive unit is required for space travel; communications are inadequate.

The Russian lead in space has been based on superiority in the rocket motor field. Russian space capsules are three times as large as Gemini IV.

The U.S. space program plans four steps: earth orbiting satellites to receive radio signals from space ships traveling far beyond the sun. The moon has the advantage of always presenting the same face to the earth. This makes it easy to maintain super high frequency radio communications by which control will be exercised. In short, the moon will be used as a communications relay site.

Space travel will enhance our knowledge of our own solar system and permit the search for life outside the earth. In the immediate future, bigger satellites will provide astronomy and radio-astronomy with vantage sites free of earth's atmospheric clutter.

A network of meteorological satellites integrated into a world system of weather observation will improve forecast reliability. Communications satellites—like Early Bird—will proliferate, shrinking the world still further.

Is the space race a good thing? Many people say no. Not while hunger, war and pestilence stalk the earth below. But the earth is here and the stars are more interesting.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

R. B. Bennett, Conservative prime minister of Canada 1930-35, died at his estate in 1947, 15 years ago today—in 1947.

Born in Hopewell Hill, N.B., Bennett practised law in Calgary and served briefly in Arthur Meighen's government. He took office as prime minister after winning the general election on a platform of Imperial trade and unemployment relief. He put the former first, but most economic proposals were wrecked by the worldwide depression. He announced broad social legislation early in 1933, but the Conservative government was defeated at that year's general election.

1614—The Virginia Company held the first recorded lottery in North America.

1862—Start of the Seven Days' Battle, near Richmond, Va.

First World War: Fifty years ago—in 1915—French forces counter-attacked into trench lines taken by the Germans at Calonne; Russian and Turkish armies clashed near Zevan in Armenia.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Italian air raids on Malta were intensified, killing 23, and heavier raids on Britain were forecast; Hong Kong prepared defences against Japanese attack from Indochina; in the Canadian Parliament, Henry Ford was criticized for refusing to produce aircraft engines for Britain.

Ghana Suspect

OAU Endangered

By WALTER SCHWARTZ from Lagos, Nigeria

AFRICAN unity had never been so dramatically in the balance. It needed an all-night session of close bargaining to reach a compromise. Finally, at 6 o'clock in the morning, the emergency meeting of the Organization of African Unity's Ministerial Council was over. OAU Secretary-General, Diallo Telli, called it "a great victory without any losers—a landmark in the history of Africa."

Just what this means remains to be seen. The conference had been called by Nigeria's prime minister and foreign minister, Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, to try and settle the dispute between Ghana and a group of nine French-speaking countries who accused her of subversion against her neighbors. Because of this, the nine countries refused to attend the OAU summit meeting in Accra in September. Whether or not a compromise could be found remained an open question until the very end.

The conference began rather like a court hearing—except that the judge's summing-up came at the beginning instead of at the end. This was Sir Abubakar Balewa himself, who opened the meeting. He made it clear that the charges against Ghana had to be taken seriously. "Should we tolerate a situation in which a member state lives in fear of subversion by another member state?" he asked. At the same time, he left his audience in no doubt about what would happen if they failed to solve the problem. "A dividing line has appeared in the affairs of our organization. Either we are big enough to resolve the difficulties that now confront it in a realistic and humane manner, or we go on deceiving ourselves with diplomatic niceties until our organization breaks up."

The case for the prosecution was put forcefully by M. Adamou Mayaki, foreign minister of Niger Republic—the country which accuses Ghana, among other things, of having recently tried to assassinate her president. He said subversives from Niger, Nigeria, Ivory Coast and Upper Volta were being trained in five camps in Ghana by 12 Chinese experts. The minister quoted from correspondence between Niger opposition exiles and Ghana's Bureau of African Affairs, referring to "military, moral and also financial aid" being granted to volunteers who had returned from Cuba and China "with complete ideological training behind them—both in political and military fields."

For the defence, Ghana's foreign minister, Mr. Kojo Boto, said the training camps were directed only against dependent territories due for liberation, and claimed the documents quoted by M. Mayaki were forged. But most delegates believed the charges were true. Some had heard them before; others could be heard in the lobbies, and in their hotels, discussing with astonishment the extent of Ghana's supposed involvement in subversion. The real point at issue, of course, went deeper than the guilt or innocence of Ghana on this particular charge. Ghana regards most of her neighbors, especially the French-speaking ones, as neo-colonialist puppets.

The detailed bargaining at the conference was an effort to find a formula that would satisfy both plaintiffs and defendants. A committee of five—Nigeria, Tunisia, Gambia, Ethiopia and Mali—was still sitting at 4:30 in the morning, and then reported failure to the assembly. It looked like a complete deadlock. One delegate rose to propose the adjournment of the conference. Just before this was put to the vote, Ghana's Mr. Boto got up and said he would make a further concession. So the committee retired again, and finally at 5 a.m. produced a resolution. This "noted with satisfaction a promise by Ghana" to send away from its territory before the Accra conference all those persons whose presence is considered undesirable to countries of their choice." One of Mr. Boto's last-minute concessions had been to delete the let-out phrase allowing Ghana merely to remove the undesirable from her capital, in case no other African territory would agree to accept them. That had not been good enough for the aggrieved parties.

The resolution also noted Ghana's promise "to forbid the formation of any political groups whose aims are to oppose any member states of OAU." That phrase, also, had been one of Mr. Boto's early morning concessions. As a guarantee, Ghana agreed that the OAU secretary-general, Mr. Diallo Telli, and the conference chairman, Mr. Joseph Murumbi, Kenya's foreign minister, should go to Accra before the September summit "to ascertain the measures which are being taken towards the success of the conference."

What difference will it make? Clearly, the Lagos meeting cannot heal the basic division of purpose and policy between Nkrumahism and its sympathizers on the one hand, and, on the other, countries whose economies as well as political ideas are still closely bound up with Europe. Even the immediate problem of ensuring full attendance at the September summit is not definitely solved. Mr. Maurice Yamogo, president of Upper Volta, declared in his capital on the last day of the Lagos conference that he would not attend the Accra meeting "whatever the outcome of the talks." Two days after the talks, Niger's President Hamani Diori—who nearly lost his life in a grenade attack recently, and accused Ghana of being responsible, said he would still not go to Accra unless President Nkrumah "recognizes his wrongs, offers reparations, and agrees to the demands of our countries and peoples."

Whether or not President Diori and his fellow dissidents go to Accra, that meeting may well decide whether the OAU can survive. Already there are signs of a return to the pre-OAU division of Africa into "radicals" and "moderates," the old so-called Casablanca and Monrovia groups. On the one side, a first step towards this has been the formation of the Afro-Malagasy Common Union (OCAM), a group of 15 French-speaking states which had, when the OAU was formed, disavowed an earlier union in the interests of Pan-Africanism.

On the other side, there are reports that some of the "ultras" among Ghana's young men are also beginning to urge that two ideologically homogeneous bodies might be more effective than a single heterogeneous one.

However, for the time being none of Africa's leaders wants to scrap the OAU. Although most delegates in Lagos believed the charges against Ghana to be true, most of them opposed a boycott of the Summit. To this extent Ghana's accusers found themselves in the dock. If they carry out their threat to stay away from Accra, they will discover that they, not the Ghanaians, are the odd men out.

For Hawaiians

A Lost Identity

By STANLEY KARNOW from Honolulu

CAPTAIN COOK was the first white man to visit the Hawaiian Islands, and one legend has it, he was eaten by the natives. Hawaii has been steadily absorbing the West ever since, until today as the 50th State of the United States, it is thoroughly American.

Indeed, it is an astonishing example of cultural assimilation by a former colonial power. Wine-drinking Vietnamese are Frenchified, and cricket-playing Indians may be Anglicized. The assortment of Japanese, Chinese, Koreans, Filipinos and indigenous Hawaiians who inhabit this archipelago are not Americanized—but American.

Names like Bob Suzuki, Jerry Wong and Paul Bao-lo Chock may betray their ethnic origins. But as taxi-drivers, bartenders, real estate salesmen or faithful Rotarians, Bob, Jerry and Paul are scarcely different from their compatriots in Chicago or Atlanta, Georgia. They often do not speak the language of their forefathers, and they have made of Honolulu an American city, complete with used car lots, drive-in cinemas, comfortable suburbs and traffic jams. The striving for American identity was such during the last world war that a Hawaiian unit of Nisei, Japanese-Americans, won more medals than any other in the U.S. Army.

Yet this parcel of America is delightfully, exotically leavened by the Orient. Beside rows of cake mix and frozen chops, vast supermarkets sell Korean spices, Cantonese cabbage and sashimi (raw fish) much favored by the Japanese.

Queen Mother Thrills Cities

TORONTO (CP)—The Queen Mother, colonel-in-chief of the Toronto Scottish Regiment, Friday night presented new colors to her regiment in a ceremony tinged with sentiment but glittering with military splendor and precision.

To the strains of Auld Lang Syne the old colors, presented by her when she was Queen in 1939, were marched off for the last time.

BATTLES NAMED

The new colors, bearing battle honors with such names as the Somme, Vimy, Ypres and Dieppe, Antwerp and the Rhineland, were consecrated and presented by Her Majesty in a ceremony at varsity stadium.

In a brief speech, she told the men:

"As I passed along your ranks just now, my thoughts turned to some of those events which will ever be enshrined in the proud history of our regiment."

STANDING OVATION

The Queen Mother, wearing a pink dress and matching coat, received a standing ovation from the capacity crowd of about 20,000 as she arrived for the ceremony.

Earlier in the day, the royal schedule, usually worked down to the minute, went out the window—with the Queen Mother's strong approval.

OSHAWA WELCOME

Her majesty decided something must be done to acknowledge the tumultuous welcome given her by the people of Oshawa as she drove to E. P. Taylor's national stud farm.

"Her Majesty was very upset that the people could not see her very well," her lady-in-waiting, Lady Jean Rankin, reported as the party arrived 25 minutes late at the farm.

COULDN'T STOP

"We hadn't prepared for such a welcome and when we got in the city we couldn't stop to put the car top down."

Many of the viewers in the city of 70,000 population also were confused in that they looked for the Queen Mother in the big, black official car which travelled behind the pale blue convertible in which she rode. But the Queen Mother fixed all that. She cut short her tour of the farm and had word sent back to the city that her car would make the return journey slowly, with the top down, instead of racing off as scheduled to keep a luncheon date with Vincent Massey, former governor-general.

SEES DANCER

Paraded before her at the farm were 17 horses, including some of the most famous racers in Canada. Star of the presents-tion was Northern Dancer, the four-year-old bay who has won the Queen's Plate, the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness and is Canada's all-time top money winner.

The Queen Mother today will attend the running of the Queen's Plate and later present the 50 "Queen's guineas" to the winning owner.

Laing Makes It Definite

Ottawa Owns Offshore

OTTAWA (UPI)—Rejecting contrary views expressed by Quebec and British Columbia, Resources Minister Laing Friday stated Canadian offshore mineral rights are a federal jurisdiction.

Laing's statement in the Commons indicated the touchy issue likely would come in for some heavy debate during the federal provincial conference which opens here July 19.

CALGARY FIRM

Laing was replying to Opposition questions concerning oil and gas exploration permit granted to Pan American Petroleum of Calgary for work in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Laing said Pan American had made "regulation application" for the exploratory permits last June 9.

"It is the view of the federal government that as the seabed resources of the Gulf of St. Lawrence do not lie within the boundaries of any province, they are subject to the administration of the federal government," he said.

Both British Columbia and Quebec have been pushing for provincial control of the offshore mineral rights.

The Pacific coast question is now before the Supreme Court of Canada.

"This action was taken because of the position of the province of British Columbia that it held exclusive jurisdiction to control the exploration of these off-shore resources—a position which the federal government does not accept," Laing said.

Laing has been urging Ottawa to withdraw the delicate question from the court and discuss it around the conference table.

Foster Homes Workable For Retarded

Victoria experts feel a proposal to form foster "retardate homes" merits study.

Dr. G. H. Lowther, a Portage la Prairie psychiatrist, proposed recently that "families" of retarded persons be formed so that the afflicted could experience relationships that are now often denied to them.

MAY SUFFER

He pointed out a retarded person growing up in a normal family cannot only influence family experience adversely, but may suffer himself.

Dr. W. H. Geddes, University of Victoria psychologist, agreed:

"One of the basic concepts of treating the retarded is that of allowing them to mix with others at their own mental level.

CAN'T KEEP UP

"So often a retarded child is kept in a normal environment, which is frustrating to him because he cannot keep up with the others."

"Retarded people are frequently much happier in well-run institutions, where they can mix freely with others like themselves."

"The basic idea of keeping retarded persons on a similar level together has been indicated to be satisfactory."

JUDGMENT RESERVED

He felt he would like to know more about Dr. Lowther's plan before making judgment, but indicated it was possibly a workable idea.

Dr. Charles Gregory, director of the provincial mental health clinic, agreed with Dr. Geddes.

AN EXTENSION

"It would seem to be simply an extension of the idea that one keeps the retarded in the community as much as possible, provided they are able to cope with the community."

"It could work, but to do something like this we would need facilities which do not at present exist."

STILL GREAT NEED

"Facilities for the retarded are improving, but there is still a great need, and when the facilities are there, perhaps this can be tried out."

"It's an interesting idea." "Whether or not it would work, I don't know. I'd like to know more about it."

Russia Wants Treaty With Turkey

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier A. Kosygin, in his first interview with a foreign newsmen, called Friday for a Soviet-Turkish non-aggression pact.

Western observers here felt such a pact, if carefully worded, would not necessarily contradict Turkey's membership in NATO, which is a defensive organization.

Kosygin talked for 35 minutes with the editor-in-chief of a Turkish weekly newspaper. The interview came two months before the expected visit here of Turkish Premier Ismet Inönü.

NO THREATS

Kosygin said he wants good Soviet-Turkish relations. He said Russia has no territorial plans against Turkey.

He urged a Soviet-Turkish pact of friendship and non-aggression, similar to the one that existed between the two nations from 1923 to 1945.

Urgulu's visit, he said, would be a major step toward the conclusion of such a pact. He said the agreement would not be directed toward any third nation.

Empire Loyalists Reactivated Here

A United Empire Loyalist group will be revived in Victoria after being inactive for about 10 years.

"The organization was flourishing here years ago, then it fell dormant," Victoria member Mrs. Olive Wilson said Friday.

"I and some other members found the organization still had some money in a bank here, so we decided to start the movement again."

Anyone who can prove he is descended from United Empire Loyalists is eligible for membership in the organization.

CINCINNATI (AP) — William Cody Kelly, fired as top administrative aide to Ray Bliss, U.S. Republican national chairman, has admitted he pried open the desk of Frank Kovac, the party's finance director.

In a telegram to members of the Republican national committee and Republican state chairman, Kelly said he broke into the desk because he suspected Kovac of being a spy for the forces of Barry Goldwater, the party's 1964 presidential candidate.

EVENING FORAY

Kelly, former Cincinnati vice-mayor, was ousted by Bliss after Kovac complained of a "Gestapo-like" evening foray into Kovac's office in Washington.

Kelly denied he was fired, but said he submitted his unsolicited resignation to Bliss.

Kelly said the search of Kovac's desk and office was "part of a systematic search" of the entire party headquarters.

Kelly said he was looking for these items:

● A missing list of people who had contributed $1,000 or more.

● Five copies of a conservative campaign film, called Choice, which was banned during the campaign of Goldwater. Kelly said he heard reports that the film was being shown at private gatherings and five copies were unaccounted for.

● A special order of 435,000 IBM plates. Kelly did not explain the purpose of the plates.

● A set of master keys to desks and offices at Republican headquarters.

"In the desk used by Mr. Kovac we found the missing list of $1,000 contributors," Kelly said. "Hidden behind the desk under a seat a curtain we found three of the missing copies of the film and in the office, we discovered the other two copies of the film."

Kelly said he immediately reported his finds to Bliss and "he professed satisfaction with my work and the locating of the list and of the film copies."

Missing Eight Days

Volunteers Continue Fishermen Search

VANCOUVER (CP)—Volunteers have been searching for two fishermen missing off Delta, 10 miles south of here, for eight days now without success.

Friends and relatives of the men, Bill Sailer, 33, and George Gunsen, 45, have walked along beaches and searched by boat, private plane owners have flown over the area, and scuba divers will be looking this weekend.

Mrs. Bill Sailer said Friday her brother-in-law Danny, 36, world champion tree climber, has been leading the volunteers all week and plans to mount a large search possibly during the weekend.

OFFICIAL SEARCH
The men disappeared eight days ago while on a one-day sport-fishing trip off Tsumwassen Beach. The official RCAF search was called off two days later, although a spokesman said search and rescue planes "keep an eye out any time they're flying over the area."

The tree-climbing champion has entertained crowds at fairs by climbing and then dancing atop 100-foot spar trees.

He appealed Tuesday for help from anyone willing to volunteer, and Mrs. Sailer said he received "a lot of offers."

WASHINGTON — Former postmaster-general J. Edward Day chose 11 U.S. postage stamps as a front cover for his autobiography. The only trouble is they're colored and U.S. law prohibits the reproduction of stamps in color.

MARSEILLE — Gaston Deferre, Socialist mayor of Marseille, announced he has decided not to run in the French presidential election in December. His decision to withdraw followed the collapse of his plans for a left-centre, anti-Gaullist federation.

WHITEHORSE — Joseph Armistead, former assistant supervisor of the Yukon Indian agency, was found not guilty on four charges of uttering false documents. The charges involved issuance of Indian affairs branch cheques totalling $508 between December, 1961, and August, 1962.

VANCOUVER — The three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warner — Tim, 11; Gordon, 13, and Gary, 17 — escaped unharm by leaping 18 feet from second-floor windows when fire damaged their home. They were awakened by shouts of their parents (Mr. Warner is the son of former attorney-general Gordon Warner of 1881 Gillespie in Victoria), who were prevented by flames from going upstairs.

CARDIFF — Queen Elizabeth met Welsh officials to discuss the investiture of her son Prince Charles, who will be 17 Nov. 14, as Prince of Wales. The Duke of Windsor was 17 when he became Prince of Wales.

PORT TALBOT, Wales — When Queen Elizabeth left her Rolls-Royce limousine during her visit here, the chauffeur temporarily removed the silver horse ornament from the radiator to discourage souvenir hunters.

BONN — Claus von Amsherg, 38, future husband of Dutch Crown Princess Beatrix, left his foreign ministry post. A boyhood resident of Tanganyika, he was head of economic relations with African countries south of the Sahara.

TORONTO — Medicine Hat Mayor Harry Valer, 51, who challenges fellow politicians to contests as a habit, challenged Mayor Philip Givens, 68, to a marathon. Mayor Givens came from behind to tie, each finishing the 6½ miles in 90 minutes.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor George Peppard and actress Elizabeth Ashley "probably" will marry in April or May of next year, Peppard said.

BOSTON — Cardinal Cushing, 69, says he will not oppose legislation to permit birth control in Massachusetts.

BROOKVILLE, Pa. — David Townsend Elgie, musician and composer, died at 70. He was credited with collaborating on Wabash Blues and There'll Be Some Changes Made.

JUNEAU, Alaska — Former governor Frank McManaman, who devoted nearly 30 years of his life to the economic development of Alaska, died after a heart attack. He was 77.

Is Confederate Counterfeit?

South Rises Again—Briefly

PORT ALBERNI—The Confederate States may have lost the Civil War but it looked like their money was good for a short time earlier this week.

Magistrate W. R. MacLeod was told that not only did Janko Kevric of Alberni persuade a motel owner to cash a Confederate 150 bill but he was paid $3.50 exchange for it.

Kevric is charged with passing a counterfeit note. Prosecutor Robert Oha, who entered the bill as evidence, said it bore a date of the 1860s and was inscribed "refundable in Confederate stock bearing 8 per cent interest."

Court was told Kevric attempted to cash the note at the Beachfront Hotel but a waiter refused it. At the motel he got cash plus exchange.

Questioned by defence lawyer George Budovinec, RCMP Cpl. V. D. R. Wilson said that in his opinion the bill was not legal tender anywhere "as the Confederate States lost the war."

Magistrate MacLeod reserved decision until Monday morning.

Police Just Laugh At This Speeder

PORT ALBERNI—Cyclist Cliff Noydall of Port Alberni was clocked at 61 miles an hour in a 45 mile per hour zone on his way to Winnipeg, but police officers laughed it off.

Cliff, who is on a cross-Canada-and-return trip on his Italian bike, was picked up in a police radar screen as he was going uphill around a slow sloping corner over a railway viaduct.

"The highway patrol officer laughed when he saw my bike," Cliff said in a report back to Port Alberni. "and he was still laughing when he went back to his car."

The secret was I had a 30-to-40 mile per hour wind behind me," Cliff reports. The Port Alberni cyclist, who left here June 1 bound for Newfoundland, came a cropper 37 miles short of Winnipeg after chalking up 1,338 miles. He went over the handlebars of his 12-speed bike when two spokes snapped. He made his report from Winnipeg as he waited for repairs.

He is still in good fettle although he has lost 25 pounds since he left here.

So far, he says, "I have seen and been through sunsets, dawns, snowfalls (six inches at Banff), thunder and cloudbursts."

At one stage he passed Helen Atwood and her pal, who are headed across Canada on horseback. They were three hours ahead of Cliff at Moose Jaw but he was ahead going into Winnipeg. He believes they might be ahead again due to his enforced wait in Winnipeg. Thus far they haven't met.

TOFINO—An intensive air, sea and land search for a missing troller with one man aboard, has failed to turn up any sign of the 36-foot vessel.

The troller Kerry Junior with owner Ken Gibson of Vancouver aboard, was last seen Thursday morning south of Leonard Island lighthouse on its way to the fishing grounds with other boats.

Its failure to return to Tofino Thursday night sparked an all-out search by the Tofino life-

Rain, Hail Hit Farms

MOOSE JAW (CP)—A wind, rain and hail storm hit the farming area southeast of here leaving flooded fields, demolished and damaged buildings.

An estimated 3 1/2 inches of rain fell in the Briarcrest area between 7:30 and 8 p.m. accompanied by hail that shattered more than 300 windows in business establishments and homes and caused possible 100 per cent crop losses on some farms.

host, the Coast Guard cutter Ready, RCAF aircraft from Comox, the RCMP and fishing vessels.

EVERY BEACH Every beach, inlet and bay and all the waters from Tofino to Estevan Point have been searched.

Members of the Ucluellet RCMP detachment have covered all the beaches at Ucluellet, Wickanishish and Long Beach and another search party has scoured the beaches and bays up to Estevan Point.

NO EVIDENCE So far no evidence of the missing vessel has been found. Mr. Gibson, whose family of three live in Vancouver, has been fishing out of Tofino for the past few years.

RCMP said the Kerry Junior has no radio aboard so would have been unable to send out messages. The search, called off at dusk Friday night, will be continued today.

Rear-Admiral Hose

Maple Leaf Flag On Navy Casket

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy bade farewell Friday to one of its founders — Rear-Admiral Walter Hose, who died Tuesday at nearby Riverside.

Admiral Hose, one of the prime movers in the formation of the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve, and a Windsor resident since 1950, was accorded full naval honors. Admirals and commodores, representing the largest gathering of top-ranking naval personnel ever seen in this port city, attended.

SOLEMN PROCESSION Hundreds of spectators watched the solemn funeral procession, as the casket of Admiral Hose draped in the red maple leaf flag and bearing his uniform, cap and sword, was borne from a funeral home here to a cemetery seven miles away.

Leading the RCN party was Vice-Admiral K. L. Dyer, chief of personnel.

FINAL TRIBUTE The graveside service was conducted by Rev. E. A. Novvin of Our Lady of Gandeloppe Church, here, and Rev. Frank White, Roman Catholic chaplain to HMCS Hunter.

As the final tribute, three volleys echoed over the gathering from the rifle escort.

Rhoda Ozard Funeral Here Today

Funeral services for long-time Victorian Mrs. Rhoda Ozard, 85, of 2029 Cedar Hill Road, will be held at 1 p.m. today at Sands' chapel.

Mrs. Ozard lived in Victoria for 58 years, but she was born in Fenton Falls, Ont. The widow of William H. Ozard, she died Wednesday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She was a Past Grand Noble of Oakleaf Lodge No. 1 and an active member of Metropolitan United Church.

She is survived by two sons, J. H. Ozard and W. C. Ozard of Victoria; two brothers, Parry G. Walker and Harold S. Walker, both of Victoria; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Royal Oak.

Gold Keg Beer makes merry with the tough old salts of Bristol.

Cdr. John Buck, RN (ret'd.) and his old shipmates enjoy the mainbrace with Gold Keg.

Bless 'em.

In Bristol there are dozens of old pubs that are favored by ex-Navy men.

Grand boardwalkers all. During Operation Gold Keg we spent many an hour in these pubs, testing Canada's celebrated Gold Keg Beer on the old salts.

Who, of course, loved it. You see, Gold Keg is brewed with men in mind. Men who love a hearty, mellow kind of beer. A deep-flavored beer.

So it's no surprise that Gold Keg is making friends all over England. And it's no surprise that Englishmen (bless 'em) compare it to their favourite English beer.

Why don't you try Gold Keg for a change? It's a grand brew for a man who likes beer.

Bless you.

Labatt's brews Gold Keg Beer from the finest imported Hops and Malt.

Province-First Idea Wrong

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Sectionalism in Canada has been deployed by the president of the Investment Dealers' Association in his annual report to members at Jasper.

D. Bruce Shaw said it was not good for Canada if provinces conflicted with one another in their bids to attract industry. "Industry should be left free to select its own location," he said. He thought economic considerations should not be clouded by government subsidies or other short term lures.

ALL IN THE CLOUDS

Nobody in the trade seems to have the slightest idea whether the drop in market prices is likely to continue or is coming to an end. Few counsellors are outright bearish and many say they are looking for buying opportunities for their customers. One dealer pointed out the current drop in prices has brought the yield-earnings ratio on listed industrials to approximately the 17 to 1 mark which was current when the market recovered from its last break in 1962.

MORALLY COMMITTED

A U.S. firm says it is morally, but not legally, committed to make an offer to pull Atlantic Acceptance Corp. out of the financial hole in which the Toronto-based finance company finds itself.

F. H. Willis, president of General Acceptance of Allentown,

Pa., said his company, one of the leaders in the industry with 600 branches, will probably make an offer to acquire Atlantic through an exchange of stock.

NORMAL COURSE

The Canadian company fell into difficulties when it was unable to refinance short-term notes it had been borrowing in the U.S. The notes were secured by consumer and industrial loans made in the normal course of business by Atlantic.

It is felt in market circles that, unless an offer such as that being considered by General Acceptance comes along, Atlantic shareholders may take considerable losses.

IDENTITY MIXUP

What's in a name. Quite a lot sometimes. The other day it was reported the Toronto firm of T. A. Richardson had been fined $1,000 by the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The local office of James Richardson and Sons in Victoria quickly received a number of calls from customers who had not read too closely, wanting to know what was wrong.

"We were glad to be able to tell them it had nothing to do with us," said Bill Cairns, Richardson's office manager.

BETTER THAN 1964

Canadian Hydrocarbons, a major supplier of propane gas, made a net profit of $1,822,336 ($2.18) in the year ended March 31. This was up 27.3 per cent from the previous year when the net profit was $1,433,625 ($1.61).

Crude propane was up 11 per cent at $14.283, 110.

MORE LOCAL PASSES

Successful local candidates in Course Two of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada were Raymond West and R. St. G. Gray of James Richardson and Sons, J. R. Abercrombie of Hagar Investments, P. C. York of T. B. Reed and Co., and E. Erdos of Pemberton Securities.

UP AND DOWN METALS

Consolidated Mining and Smelting has decreased its price for cadmium by 25 cents a pound, the new price, varying by size of lots, ranging from $3.85 to $2.60 a pound.

At the same time the Trail firm has increased its price for blanchet by $1.05 a pound. The new prices vary from $4.25 to $4.50, according to size of lot.

WEALTH AT KIMAT

The average income of people who live in Kimat is the highest for any community in British Columbia, and probably for the whole of Canada, says G. W.

Whitehead, Alcan's property department manager in the northern aluminum town.

The average weekly income in Kimat is $125 against the national manufacturing town average of $98, and the B.C. average of $98.

Mr. Whitehead bases his figures on a population of 3,000 of whom 3,500 are employed, and adds: "Our average income in Kimat for all types of employment is 43 per cent above the national average for the highest paid group."

More Items From Japan

OTTAWA (CP)—Japan has agreed to voluntary quotas for 1965 providing a three to five per cent increase in exports to Canada covered by self-imposed restraints, Finance Minister Gordon said Friday.

He also disclosed five more items exported to Canada by Japan have been removed from the voluntary quotas list—spun rayon blouses, spun rayon shirts, canvas footwear, waterproof footwear and dish towels.

Courtroom Parade

'Gap' in Teens' Treatment

Criticism of an "unhappy gap" in the laws concerning teenage offenders was voiced Friday by Magistrate William Ostler.

Sentencing a boy of 15 in city court, the magistrate noted that, although the law allows 15-year-olds to be allowed juvenile to adult court, it does not allow anyone under the age of 16 to be sent to a young offenders' unit.

FORESTRY CAMPS

Youngsters sentenced to the unit for a definite term, followed by an indefinite one, receive vocational training in such institutions as forestry camps, the magistrate said.

But in the case before him he had no alternative but to send the youngster direct to Oakalla. This was an "unhappy gap" in the law.

TRAINING INSTITUTION

Fortunately, the magistrate added, there is a system of screening prisoners at Oakalla, so the youngster could be sent from there to a training institution.

He said he would make a strong recommendation for such training in this case.

Noting the youngster had been in 10 foster homes the magistrate told him: "You have not had an easy time of it."

SENTENCE GIVEN

His sentence: 12 months.

The youngster had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to three break-ins between April 5 and June 11. Two were at city homes and one at a grocer's store.

Watches, a radio, flashlight batteries and cigarettes were among the articles stolen.

A 16-year-old Enquilmalt youth who pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to 24 break-ins, was sentenced to 18 months definite and 18 months indefinite in the young offenders' unit.

James Brooks, 820 Rock Heights, stole almost $500 over a period of six months. Most of the break-ins were committed in the 600 and 700 blocks of Yates and Fort streets.

Magistrate Ostler said that Brooks' case was "very depressing."

On the one hand the youth had a high IQ but on the other he exhibited no remorse for his crimes.

If Brooks' intelligence and drive were properly channelled, there is no telling how far he could go in law-law society, said Magistrate Ostler.

But he shuddered to think how far Brooks could go in the opposite direction if he did not change his ways.

Brooks was sentenced for each offence, sentences to run concurrently.

Claude C. Nichols, 3028 Shelbourne, pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences. An RCMP officer testified Nichols had passed a bad cheque for $55 in Chetwynd, B.C., during May of 1964.

Nichols had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to four other false pretences counts involving bad cheques cashed last month in Victoria.

He drew cheques against Dunsmuir Super Service, his employers until May 12, for $75, $10, $40 and $20.

He told Magistrate Ostler Friday he intended to follow his doctor's advice and give up drinking.

The magistrate said Nichols' pre-sentence report was not a good one, but at the same time the man had been emotionally disturbed.

Nichols was sentenced to six months concurrent on each count.

Proceedings to have John N. L. Smith, 28, of Victoria, declared an habitual criminal were set for August 3 in the Law Courts.

The start had been delayed pending appeal by Smith against conviction for attempted breaking and entering.

City solicitor Terence O'Grady, acting as prosecutor in the case, told Magistrate Ostler the appeal has been dismissed. The proceedings will be heard before Magistrate J. A. Byers, Mr. O'Grady said.

In Oak Bay court 17-year-old John Martin, 1535 Prospect Place, received a two-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty at an earlier hearing to five counts of uttering forged cheques.

The cheques, worth a total of $420, were deposited in the Oak Bay branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia between Feb. 12 and May 18. Court was told $107 restitution has so far been made and the full sum is to be paid back.

Martin, whose case was transferred from juvenile court, had no record of previous offences, Magistrate Ostler noted.

Rudolf Pearson, 743 Vancouver, pleaded guilty to consuming liquor in a public place and was fined $30.

Appearing in short pants before the magistrate, 16-year-old Douglas Kingsford, 2585 Lansdowne, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor. He was fined $20.

It was the same fine for three other minors who pleaded guilty to the offence: Peter Blon, 2530 Chelsea Place, Darvin Marsh, 17004 Denman, and Lawrence Lott, 1321 Haultain.

Magistrate Ostler repeated the warning he has given in other courts that in future he will be handing out stiffer penalties for this offence.

Paper Tax Means Press Control Says Publisher

REGINA (CP) — Publisher

Clifford Sifton proposed Friday that Canadian ownership and control of Canadian publications should be ensured by a change in the country's constitution instead of by the proposed advertising tax.

"The power to tax advertising is the power to control the press and must not be used even under the pretext of accomplishing a desirable end," he writes in the Regina Leader-Post.

"A penal tax which may be altered at any time by a few words added to the annual tax amendments by a single party in power in Ottawa is a notably unsatisfactory method of accomplishing a strictly limited restriction upon press freedom."

WANTS SAFEGUARD

"A constitutional provision embedded in the British North America Act which can be changed only by both federal and provincial action is eminently suitable for this purpose."

Mr. Sifton, of Toronto, is chairman of Armada Co. Ltd. which publishes the Leader-Post and Saskatchewan Star-Phoenix and has broadcasting interests.

His 4,300-word article says that newspapers and the periodical press are essential to responsible democratic government and should be wholly owned and managed by Canadian citizens.

SHOULD NOT BE

But he says foreign ownership of publications should not be prevented by disallowing advertising expenditures in them for income tax purposes, as proposed in a bill that has been approved in principle by the House of Commons.

Mr. Sifton, a lawyer, says action taken by present owners of publications to guarantee Canadian ownership and control is unsatisfactory because it can be reversed later by majority shareholders. Control through an authority like the Board of Broadcast Governors would be unsatisfactory since newspapers then would be under discretionary control of the government.

Only a constitutional provision through amendment of the BNA Act is an acceptable solution to the ownership problem, Mr. Sifton writes. He also urges that a complete record of ownership and control of Canadian publications be "continuously a matter of public record in Canada for all to see."

Los Angeles, St. Louis Get NHL Green Light

NEW YORK (CP)—The National Hockey League Friday announced the ground rules for expansion from six to 12 teams and approved Los Angeles and St. Louis as the first two acceptable sites. The next step is league approval of suitable applicants for a franchise.

The expanded league would operate in two divisions of six clubs each no earlier than the 1967-68 season and no later than the 1968-69 season.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, issued a statement approved by the NHL board of governors detailing the proposed expansion program.

VANCOUVER LISTED
The governors for the first time listed the cities being "principally considered" for the new six team division. Vancouver, which has made an informal application for a franchise, was among those listed.

Formal applications for new franchises will be accepted immediately, the governors agreed, "and it is intended that conditional franchises will be awarded as soon as applicants are approved by the league."

DRAFT TWENTY
The governors said each new franchise will be required to put up $2,000,000 for franchise fees and 20 professional players to be drafted from the six existing NHL organizations.

The present NHL clubs are Montreal, Canada, Toronto, Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins, Chicago Black Hawks, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers.

Los Angeles and St. Louis were approved as "acceptable cities" which have arenas that meet the established NHL standards of at least 12,500 permanent seating capacity and a playing surface 200 feet long and 85 feet wide.

"Los Angeles and St. Louis could go tomorrow," Campbell said.

"Both cities meet the requirements for standard arenas, the solidity, integrity and financial stability of the applicants."

The governors said: "For the remaining places in the new division, it was indicated that the choice would be among Baltimore, Houston, Minneapolis - St. Paul, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco-Oakland, Vancouver and Washington, D.C. All of these cities have previously made informal applications for franchises."

The governors said when the new conditional franchises are granted, they will be "conditioned principally on the granting of other franchises to fill out the projected six team new division."

"However, in cities where arena construction is necessary, conditional franchises will also be granted subject to the completion of construction."

Vancouver is one of the cities that must construct a suitable arena.

The $2,000,000 payment would be exclusive of various other basic costs of the franchise, including minor league operations, territorial rights and working capital.

OWN OR LEASE
The governors said each new franchise owner must either own the arena or have a long-term lease that would be satisfactory to the league. Any such lease would have to be for a term of 10 years with an option for renewal for five years.

The draft of a total of 120 professional players from the six existing NHL organizations would take place during the June preceding the first season of play by the new division.

The new franchise owners also will take part in the annual draft of junior players as soon as their franchises become final.

TV NOBED
Television was not discussed by the governors. Campbell said, but he hoped the continental flavor of an expanded league would offer an attractive product to the U.S. television market.

Montreal and Toronto have innovative TV contracts with the CBC. But the four U.S. teams have been able to pick up virtually no TV revenues.

The expansion of color TV certainly would be a factor in boosting NHL hockey, Campbell said, noting Canada plans to have color TV in 1967.

Bob Shaw Wins Wet One-Hitter Over Philadelphia

San Francisco Giants' Bob Shaw, embroiled in a bitter spit-ball controversy throughout the game, pitched a one-hitter last night in San Francisco as the Giants beat Philadelphia Phillies, 4-1.

The only hit was Wes Covington's homer in the second inning.

On 10 occasions, the umpire made Shaw surrender the ball for inspection and he was warned twice to wipe off his pitching hand on the rain bar or his uniform.

Sandy Koufax struck out 12 and drove in the winning run as Los Angeles Dodgers cooled Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-1, in the other west coast National League game.

There was another sparkling pitching effort as Cincinnati's Sammy Ellis beat the Milwaukee Braves, 3-1, in 11 innings. His record, like Koufax, now is 12-3.

Don Pateletich's 11th-inning two-run homer won it for the Reds.

RED LEAD
The American League action, getting closer each day, saw Minnesota keep its slim lead over Chicago and Cleveland.

The Twins beat Detroit, 4-3, on Joe Nasek's bases-loaded infield single with two out in the ninth inning.

The White Sox stopped Baltimore, 6-0, and Cleveland shut out Kansas City, 2-0, for their 12th win in the last 13 games.

TWO HOMERS
Rocky Colavito and Fred Whitfield homered to provide the Cleveland runs.

New York Yankees defeated Los Angeles, 5-1. The winning run came in the eighth inning when Bob Lee's two-out bases-loaded walk to Horace Clarke forced in Tom Tresh.

With Yankees at first and third and two out in the eighth, Angels' manager Bill Rigney ordered an intentional walk to Cleve Boyer with pitcher Al Downing scheduled to bat next. Clarke, however, batted for Downing and walked, forcing in Tresh.

Russell, Vollmer Meet In B.C. Golf Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—Veteran John Russell and youngster Wayne Vollmer due today for the B.C. amateur golf title, after scoring impressive wins over beleaguered competitors Friday. As expected, Russell, a 33-year-old sales engineer, bombed 22-year-old Terry Campbell 7 and 6, in a scheduled 36-hole match. Vollmer, 20, at the same time dashed Don Gardner's title hopes 5 and 2. Playing his own Point Grey Golf and Country Club course, Russell shot a sizzling 5-under-par for 30 holes. Campbell was plagued with slices into the rough and golf balls that rimmed the cup on short puts in the match play competition. Vollmer, recent winner of a golfing scholarship to Arizona

Good News for Bears

B.C.'s 1965-66 game regulations are intended among other things to enhance the status of the humble black bear and to protect the antlerless moose of the Squamish Valley from the inroads of civilization.

The two major changes in the regulations from 1964-65 are introduction of the province's first closed season and bag limits on black bear and a year-round closed season on antlerless moose in the upper Squamish Valley.

The regulations, approved by order-in-council Friday, provide for a closed season on black bear from mid-June to the end of August next year.

A spokesman for the Recreation Department's fish and game branch said the move isn't prompted by any reduction in the black bear population.

"Rather, we're trying to encourage resident sportsmen to regard the black bear as a trophy animal rather than as a pest," he said.

"Many hunters who come here from the states would give their eye teeth to take home a black bear."

TWO EACH

The new bag limit will be two bears.

Neither the bag limit nor the closed season will apply to farmers or ranchers who hunt on their own lands.

The spokesman said the closed season on the antlerless moose is being introduced to build the herd up after a sharp decline in population blamed mainly on improved access for hunters.

Most of the other changes in the new regulations are of minor importance to hunters.

They include:

- A one-week extension of hunting for white-tail deer in the Grand Forks area and a one-week-earlier opening of the season on mule deer in the East Kootenays;
- Two-week-earlier opening of the season on buck deer in the Peace River and Prince George areas as the result of population gains;
- Opening of the elk bulls season in the Peace district two weeks earlier to make the season conform with those on sheep and goats;
- Extension of the open season on moose bulls in the lower mainland by one week to reduce herds in advance of Columbia Basin flooding.

The season on ruffed grouse and ptarmigan in upper Vancouver Island is being extended three weeks to Jan. 2 to allow hunting in the Christmas season in the light of increased population.

Blitzed Church Moving

LONDON (AP) — The war-blackened shell of St. Mary Aldemary Church is being prepared for dismantling and shipment to Fulton, Mo., where it will rise as a memorial to Sir Winston Churchill.

The Anglican church near the city of London Guildhall, was destroyed by an incendiary bomb during a German air raid in 1941 and the ruins have stood abandoned since. The actual dismantling begins in July.

It will be moved to Westminster College in Fulton, where the wartime prime minister coined the phrase "Iron Curtain" March 5, 1946. Churchill said in that speech: "From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an Iron Curtain has descended across the continent."

Marshall Simon, the architect restoring the church, says the operation will involve numbering each stone and packing it carefully for shipment from London docks. Total weight of

Whiz-Kid Monks Ride Out To Save Bad City's Soul

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—A young Church of England order, nicknamed the Whiz-Kid Monks, is trying to revive religion in bad old Birmingham.

This industrial city of 1,250,000, England's second largest, is in the busy, smoky Midlands. It has little history beyond its 150 years of making money. Its critics say Birmingham people are grossly materialistic.

So it's a rule of the order that every monk must have an outside job to carry him daily into the world. And, when the day's work is done, he must go out to the places where young people meet — the youth clubs, the coffee bars, even the street corners.

FEW WEAR ROBES
 Some, who are teaching, wear the grey robes of the order at work. Most do not, because it would make them too conspicuous among the workers at a factory bench or the salesman in a store.

Father Peter Ball, 33, who founded the order and heads it, explains his new strategy at his priory in the suburb of Alum Rock:

DISCIPLINE PRESERVED
 "We are trying to make the world our monastery — learning to live our vows in the world without being too tied down by rules. But we live a highly disciplined Christian life. You might say we are trying to be the commando troops of the army of God. If we ever lose that intensity, we might as well pack up."

The money each monk earns is pooled and used to meet living expenses of the community. If one wants to buy anything for his particular trade — the brothers must approve the expense.

LEATHER JACKETS
 Several ride motorcycles to and from work. They don crash helmets and black leather-jackets over their rope-girt robes. This kind of thing has led to them being dubbed "the Whiz-kid Monks."

A clanging bell rouses the brothers each morning at 5:30 for an hour and a half in chapel — matins, mass and meditation. After breakfast they do household chores and by 8 a.m. the priory is empty, except for one monk who works a factory night shift.

Brother Trevor, a former footballer, dashes off to Winslow Green prison where he works full-time as assistant lay chaplain.

Worldliness is Very Rev. J. L. W. McLean's sermon topic at evening service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. His morning topic is Picnic in Palestine.

The Sunday morning service at First Baptist Church will centre around the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Canadian Girls in Training program.

Rev. John A. Watson will preach the evening service.

Dr. Emma M. Smiley will speak at The Eternal Miracle at the 11 a.m. service at Victoria Truth Centre. Her 7:30 p.m. service sermon topic will be The Solution for All Problems.

When the day's work is done the monks come home to the priory chapel for evensong and compline.

Then some strum guitars or play pop records for a youth club set up in a former air raid shelter. Others go back in the city—Brother Trevor to meet some former prisoner now on after-care or carry aid to a prisoner's wife.

The Anglican Church is holding a retreat in September at Surf Lodge Guest House on Gabriola Island.

"A retreat is a few days spent in complete silence, except for services and addresses, in the company of other people who value the same experience," said Dean Brian Whitlow.

"Noise and chatter, over-busy activity and the pressures of an urbanized society have combined to rob many people of that inner peace which is the one thing which a human life needs most of all."

OLD CUSTOM
 The custom is as old as the Christian church itself, Dean Whitlow went on.

He said it is based on Jesus Christ's command to his disciples, "Come ye apart and rest awhile."

"The idea is to go away and live in silence, away from the hectic life of the everyday world for a time, and let your soul catch up. So often, in the pace of our material life, the soul is left behind."

The object of a retreat is not to turn people into monks and nuns, he said.

TEMPORARY WITHDRAWAL
 "We emphasize that a retreat is a temporary withdrawal from the world, so that you may return better able to cope with it."

Those attending the retreat will spend their days there in complete silence, except for religious observances.

"The silence is not a negative thing; it is very positive. You know that no one is going to speak to you, and that you are going to speak to no one. You know that your own train of thought will not be interrupted."

Social Light Sings Here

Prominent Long Island socialite Mrs. Eleanor Searke Whitney, frequently on the list of the 10 best-dressed U.S. women and a former concert, operatic and oratorio soloist, will sing here Monday. She will be a special guest at the women's pre-crusade rally in Victoria High School auditorium at 10:30 a.m. in connection with the Leighton Ford Victoria crusade.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

"It ain't necessarily so," sang a television performer, the theme being that because stories appeared in the Bible they don't have to be taken as fact.

If man has achieved knowledge to control natural forces for his own purposes—harnessing power, conquering space, eliminating disease—he has become far less certain of basic answers than his ancestors, who doubt and anxiety are his daily companions.

He does not know his origin,

Knowing more about the universe than ever before, man is more bewildered and insecure in it than any previous generation. Confusion comes from failure to distinguish between philosophy and faith. Philosophy tries to prove and describe the ultimate answers and its functioning. Theology jumps the gap and gives the answer of revelation which Moses received at the Burning Bush: "I am that I am."

Faith for Disbelief

If God cannot be proved, neither can atheism. As a matter of fact, atheism and agnosticism require more faith to believe that the laws and order of the world came about by accident.

One also must explain why faith enriches life, while doubt and disbelief leave life sterile, empty, and full of boredom.

If someone says that faith is false, reply with more reasonable dogmatism, "It ain't necessarily so."

If you take the men of faith, you know that is what you would like to be. These men lived triumphantly and died heroically, the only men who truly overcame the world.

They had something far better than proof of God's existence: they had experience of God and relationship to Him, so that the Grace of God continually operated in their lives.

School Adds Choir

An added feature of this year's Vacation Bible School, Monday to July 8 at 1463 Hillside, will be a choir composed of girls and boys aged 7 to 14 and led by Mrs. Ron Berry. Students will be taught hand-crafts, group singing and Bible stories. Sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist Church, the school is open to children aged five to 14.

New Hassle Likely After Dorion Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Any day now, Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court will dump into the lap of the government a royal commission report on a subject it would have preferred to have heard nothing about in the first place.

The subject: Allegations against federal ministerial aides of attempted bribery and political pressure to obtain the release on bail of Lucien Rivard, suspected kingpin in a $36,000,000 dope smuggling racket for the Mafia international crime syndicate.

No matter what the report says, the opposition is likely to renew its demand for a royal commission into organized crime.

HAND OF MAFIA
The Conservatives have maintained the black hand of the Mafia has extended into federal government operations, including the prime minister's office.

The government has promised to make public the Dorion report soon after it is received, which is expected to be Monday or Tuesday.

MAY DELAY RECESS
The Commons hopes to begin a summer recess later next week but the contents of the report may cause this plan to fly out the window.

The 66-year-old judge has been working on his 14-page report since April when his inquiry concluded after 42 sitting days, 65 witnesses and more than 2,000,000 words of evidence.

MINISTERS TO HOOBS
The inquiry began Dec. 15 in Ottawa and ended April 9 in Quebec City. There were January sittings in Montreal.

Witnesses ranged from ministers of the Crown and a senator to small-time hoodlums. Before the hearings ended one witness had been charged with perjury and Rivard broke jail March 2 before the extradition order against him could be executed.

RHURARE

True to form in the Rivard affair, there was a last-minute reshuffle over a purported leak of the report to the press and the RCMP had to investigate that, too.

Southam News Services reported Chief Justice Dorion accepts the word of the main accuser in the case and consequently disbelieves the chief defendant and that he criticizes the activities of Liberal MP Guy Rouleau.

CRUCIAL POINT
The Southern report did not deal with the crucial point: Whether the report recommends criminal charges.

Basically, as the evidence shows, this is what the report is all about:
In the early evening of June 22, 1964, Guy Masson, 35, a plump, balding, small-time organizer for the Liberal party, and his cadaverous, red-headed associate, Robert (Bob) Giguere, also 35, drove from Montreal to a motel at Hull, Que., across the Ottawa River from the capital.

BEER SENT IN
After Giguere had a stock of beer sent in, Masson put a call through to Raymond Denis, 22-year-old executive assistant to Rene Tremblay, then federal minister of citizenship and immigration.

Masson and Denis had long been friends. Denis had helped Masson make contacts in Ottawa which would forward his contracting business. One evening in April he had taken Masson to a dinner meeting of about a dozen executive assistants in a swank Ottawa restaurant, ostensibly for Masson to give a little talk on bilingualism and multiculturalism.

BEHIND ARRIVED
About midnight June 22, Denis arrived at Masson's motel by taxi for a chat with his old friend.

What was on Masson's mind was this: A friend of Giguere's, one Lucien Rivard, had been arrested three days before in Montreal for U.S. authorities on charges of running a dope-smuggling ring for the Mafia.

Masson told Denis there was a tidy $60,000 waiting for the Liberal party if Rivard wasn't extradited to the U.S.

"TRAGEDY"
Later, Denis' lawyer was to say that "the whole tragedy of Raymond Denis" could be traced to a single telephone call he received June 22 from Masson.

Union Charge: Strike Bait Dangled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain handlers Friday asked for a federal investigation of what they call "provocative actions" by grain companies.

In a telegram to Labor Minister Alan MacEachern, their union accused the companies of attempting to provoke employees into expanding a strike against one grain elevator, operated by Alberta Wheat Pool.

Ed Sims, Canadian director of the International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC), signed the telegram, which said the Canadian Wheat Board has been shipping grain destined for Alberta Wheat Pool in cars designated for other elevators.

PROVOCATIVE MOVE
"This causes a struck company's grain to go into an unstruck elevator. It is a provocative move to possibly expand the strike," it said.

"The union is urging its members to handle this wheat in order not to fall victim of companies' provocations to expand strike."

Four other companies operating six elevators in Vancouver are involved in the dispute. Their grain handlers have voted to strike and could walk off at any time.

Joint Talk Called On East Drought

OTTAWA (UPI) — Agriculture Minister Hays and his counterparts from Quebec and Ontario will meet Monday to seek a solution to the severe drought which has stricken thousands of farmers in the two provinces.

The meeting follows a day-long emergency debate in the Commons Wednesday during which the opposition demanded immediate federal action to meet conditions — termed the worst in 75 years — which have left several million acres parched and browned in eastern Ontario and western Quebec.

The main topic will be how much the federal government should provide to ease the desperate conditions of many farmers.

Hays said Friday farmers could get partial relief through a freeze on loans payments if they applied to the Federal Farm Credit Corporation.

For Mailmen

The postman won't be making his rounds next Thursday, as the post office closes most of its services for the Dominion Day holiday.

There will be no letter carrier delivery, rural mail delivery, wicket service, or money order and savings bank services. In the special delivery and mail receipts and dispatches departments, there will be normal holiday service.

Mailmen will make only the evening collections from street letter boxes. The post office box lobby will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

YMCA people here that a Victorian is already doing his share.

Don Peden, 3205 Cadboro Bay, is spending the summer on the Gaza Strip in Lebanon as part of a YMCA program for overseas aid.

Dr. Henry F. Hall, director of the Y world service study, said in Montreal that "the leadership of young people is desperately needed abroad."

BACK FROM TOUR

He and 17 YMCA board members had just returned from a tour of Japan, India, Thailand, Lebanon, Jordan and Israel, and members were shocked by what they saw.

But Mr. Peden is doing his part. He was the first Victorian to be selected for the overseas program, but he won't be the last.

"Next year we hope to send two Victorian people — perhaps a young man and woman," suggested J. E. McConnell, executive director of the local branch. Their fare is paid, and a small living allowance, but it's no way to save money, according to Mr. McConnell.

"But in terms of what they do, it's wonderful," he said.

Mr. Peden, who is an undergraduate at University of Victoria, works with boys' groups doing any number of things, from teaching swimming to arts and crafts.

He works with refugees in camps in the area.

Verdict Reserved
In Horse-Car Suit

Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake has reserved judgment in a case involving an allegation that a horse forced a motorist into the ditch.

Arguments were concluded Friday in the Law Courts. Lawyer Louis Lindholm, 2760 Beach Drive, is seeking damages from the owner of the horse, Robert F. Richardson of 2862 Sooke Road.

Mr. Lindholm was represented by Brian R. D. Smith in the case, in which he sought $1,141 in damages after the accident Sept. 12.

He claimed Mr. Richardson was negligent in failing to keep the animal properly tied up.

St. Joseph's Monitor

Heard, Seen

By BILL STAVDAL

On an instrument the size of a large transistor radio, a needle wags back and forth while a speaker emits a regular, thudding rhythm.

The machine is monitoring a sick man's heartbeat two ways — visibly and audibly.

PROLONGED SURGERY

It's in use at St. Joseph's Hospital, one of many new instruments produced for medicine, and was donated by the Victoria Drug Caddies' Association.

The cardiac monitor, as it is called, is used to check the rate and rhythm of poor-risk patients on the operating table, cardiac cases and patients undergoing prolonged surgery.

AUDIBLE SIGNAL

It is used as a check in hypothermia operations, the so-called deep-freeze for heart surgery in which metabolism is reduced. The audible signal is of use in darkened rooms where a poor-risk patient, for instance, may be having X-rays taken.

NO MAZE

There is no maze of wires. All that's needed is two needles under the skin of the chest, or a finger clamp.

The monitor costs just $125. And, says Sister Mary Ann Celesta, administrator of St. Joseph's, the hospital could use another half-dozen of them.

B.C. Fires Costing Much More

British Columbia's fire-fighting bill for one week has almost doubled the entire cost of the 1964 forest fire season.

The B.C. Forest Service announced Friday it cost $27,500 to extinguish 126 fires during the week which ended with 65 fires still burning.

Cost to date for the two-month-old season is $336,500, with a total of 732 fires reported.

At this point in the 1964 fire season the province's fire-fighting bill stood at $36,500.

Win Prizes

Gordon Head Junior High School rounded off its fifth year of operation with awards day ceremonies Thursday.

The editor of the school yearbook, Kurt Hansen, won a special award from the International Co-operation Year Organization.

The Hartley picture award went to Diana Partridge and the Forestry Association awards to Linda Seabrook and Rodger Moore.

OTHER AWARDS

The George Little award for academic excellence went to Diana Partridge and the Travel-lick trophy for citizenship went to Leslie Woodland.

Olson Ray won the Armstrong cup for girls sportsmanship and Bradley Mann the Newton cup for boys sportsmanship.

Cornorant House won the Sydney Child cup for inter-house competition.

New Threat
In Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The East German government threatened Friday to tie up barge and rail shipments to West Berlin.

It also "suggested" that the four occupation powers give it control of air traffic to West Berlin. There was no immediate reply from the West.

Cathedral Hill

Commercial Zone Advocated

A special commercial zone for the Cathedral Hill precinct has been advocated in an interim report submitted Friday to a joint meeting of city aldermen and planners.

Boundaries of the precinct would not be altered, but a special area bounded by Broughton, Quadra, McClure, Blanshard and Douglas and along Penwell would be made available for high-density apartment buildings, theatres and offices.

TO DRAW PEOPLE

Object of the zone, said advisory planning commission chairman James R. Genge, would be to draw people to the precinct.

Members of the commission were told by aldermen that their planning for the precinct was on the right track, and to go ahead with their detailed report.

Instructor Gives Pointers

Final Day for Entries In Free Swim Class

It's deadline day for the Colonist's 13th annual free swim class.

At 5 p.m. registration must stop for the school that has taught more than 15,000 youngsters to swim and saved an unknown number of lives.

ESORT LESSONS

In Victoria and in Duncan, any child age eight to 14 can learn this vital skill in eight free weekly lessons.

Transportation is available for Victoria children. Buses will leave North Ward School (next to the Colonist at 2631 Douglas) each swim class morning. Eight round-trip tickets to Hamsterley Beach on Elk Lake cost $2.75.

Bus tickets are available at the Colonist editorial office — but only until 5 p.m. today.

Victoria class schedules will be published Thursday, July 1, and Sunday, July 4.

Lists of Duncan classes will be in the Colonist July 4. (Registration coupon appears on Page 7.)

Don't forget: if a child can already swim 40 feet, he's eligible to join an advanced swimmers' class.

Mrs. Margie Naysmith, the professional swim teacher who has been chief instructor of the Colonist school for the past 12 years, wants parents to know that punctuality is important.

"These classes will be run exactly on time," says Mrs. Naysmith. "With hundreds of children involved there is no other choice."

BACK ON BUS

For parents' peace of mind and her own, Mrs. Naysmith rules that children who come to Hamsterley Beach by bus must leave on the bus. Only if an adult is present to take charge, or if the child has a parent's note, can he stay.

"We can't be responsible for children after the classes," says Mrs. Naysmith.

She reminds parents to provide a waterproof bag for carrying wet garments (a plastic potato bag is fine).

NO SOCKS

The bag should be marked with name and address. Plastic bags take ball-point ink well.

Another thing: Mrs. Naysmith, from long experience, suggests that children come to swim classes without socks.

"Socks are the little things that get lost."

Classes begin July 5 in Victoria, and July 2 in Duncan.

"I'm looking forward to meeting them all," says Mrs. Naysmith.

Island Placed Under Embargo

Nurserymen Fear Bug May Bring Disaster

Vancouver Island nurserymen and at least one potato farmer are in trouble due to the dreaded golden nematode, one of their number said Friday night.

The microscopic invader was first identified on a Saanich potato farm last week and agriculture officials are more than worried.

The nematode is a worm that attacks potatoes, tomatoes and eggplant, the agriculture department said.

The farm in question is under quarantine, said provincial field crop commissioner Norman Putnam. He said agriculture officials, both federal and provincial, are marshalling their forces for an all-out war on the golden nematode.

If it gains a foothold, it's going to mean trouble. At best it would result in increased costs for local farmers. At worst, it could mean disaster.

UNDER EMBARGO
Vancouver Island has been placed under an embargo to prevent the further possible spread of the disease. No plants or crops with soil may be shipped from the island.

Strawberries and other berry crops are not affected by the ban. While potatoes are affected, the great majority of local potatoes never leave the island for marketing under normal circumstances.

COULD LOSE HALF
But for nurserymen it could mean the loss of half their business or more, said R. A. Williams of Valley View Nursery, 3140 Campion Road.

The mainland is a developing market and that is where the volume of business comes from, he said.

"Now we are shut out. It means we will have to share just the Vancouver Island market which is insufficient to keep us in business without laying off help or going out of business entirely."

WONT PLACE ORDERS
Now is the time buyers visit nurserymen to place their orders, Mr. Williams said.

"They won't be placing any orders for delivery on the mainland because, under these conditions, we won't be able to deliver them."

Mr. Putnam said Newfoundland and Long Island, N.Y., had the golden nematode problem for years and still have.

FOUND IN 1941
The worm was discovered in Long Island in 1941, he said, and they were just now getting it under control.

But there's still a chance that the infestation can be wiped out entirely. Agriculture officials are surveying farms throughout the Saanich Peninsula and so far they have found no trace of the creature outside of one three-acre area.

"If we don't find it anywhere else, we'll do all we can to wipe it out completely," said Mr. Putnam.

TOUGH CYST
But it's easier said than done.

The golden nematode at one stage of its life is a cyst, and this cyst is so tough that boiling water will not kill it. Other things will: fire, or dousing with various chemicals such as formaldehyde.

"But it would be enormously expensive," warned Mr. Putnam, "and it would only be possible if it were the one field."

WONT KNOW
They won't know until the survey is complete, however, and that won't be for some time.

If the infestation is found to be general throughout the southern part of Vancouver Island, they will then attempt to control it by soil treatment with a chemical known as DD.

DD produces a 90 to 95 per cent kill, and effectively controls the beast.

REDUCES CROPS
If the nematode has found its way beyond the one farm, it will mean increased costs for local farmers, in that there will be a certain amount of crop reduction, plus the cost of spraying.

This is the first infestation in Canada, outside of Newfoundland, and officials are not sure how it happened.

"There are many possible ways in which the nematode may have arrived," suggested Mr. Putnam. "The cyst will live for many years, and it may have come 30 years ago and just begun spreading lately."

BARELY VISIBLE
The cyst could certainly pass unnoticed, since it is barely visible—about half the size of a pinhead.

The nematode itself is even smaller—visible only through a microscope.

"The problem is now to survey the area to find out the extent of the infestation and work toward a satisfactory arrangement to keep farmers and nurserymen in business," said Mr. Putnam.

Citizens served a special luncheon to mark the event. The building, which was constructed in 1937, has been sold to an Edmonton concern. Its future use is not known.

A citizen saw the boat flashing a light and phoned police, who in turn called RVYC and Oak Bay Marina. Two boats put out.

For Mount View

Computer Cuts High School Work Drudge

A University of Victoria computer has succeeded in working out student class timetables for Mount View High School.

"We've got very good results. It's really paying off," said Mount View principal Robert Huddleston Friday.

Between 80 and 90 per cent of the routine drudgery of selecting and cross-checking student timetables has been done by computer, reported Mr. Huddleston and assistant principal Robert Hunter.

"We could open school in September with the information we have right now," said the principal.

HUMAN ESTIMATE
Done by humans, the job wouldn't have reached this stage until mid-July.

The 15 per cent of work yet to be done is caused by students who failed courses and who will be writing supplemental exams later this summer.

In about 2½ hours, the University of Victoria computer did a job that would take one man about three weeks.

The project was conceived a year ago by Mr. Huddleston and Mr. Hunter. It was begun this spring with the co-operation of the Greater Victoria School Board and the university.

Kenneth Bloomfield, the research consultant to the school board, said Friday that the pilot project has opened the way for computerized timetables at other Victoria high schools.

They will "very likely" use the system next year, he said.

Mr. Bloomfield pointed out that the computer does not decide anything, only selects one of a number of possibilities.

"The computer does the donkey work," he said.

A master time-table—showing room, teacher, class and time—must still be drawn up by a human.

But the school board is now probing the idea of a computerized master timetable, Mr. Bloomfield added.

"We are trying to see how far we can go with it."

Services on Display

Armed Forces Day Program of Events

Here are the Armed Forces Day events, in connection with Esquimalt Day Celebrations, today and tomorrow.

Today's events:

10 a.m.: armed forces parade, comprising elements of all three services.

Noon, display by navy divers at Saxe Point Park, air-sea rescue demonstration off Saxe Point.

2 to 4 p.m., open house at HMC Dockyard.

3 p.m., Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtels unveils cairn near HMC's Venture parade ground, fly past of RCN and RCAF aircraft.

From 1:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday, the Navy holds open house at its air squadron base at Patricia Bay airport.

Included in the open house will be displays of firefighting and bomb disposal, rocket-assisted take-off of an amphibious aircraft, parachute drops, rides for youngsters, and movies.

Mini-Metro

Hospital Study Deleted

A hospital survey will not be included in the capital region's proposed joint services board, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Friday.

Mr. Campbell said he would delete the function on the basis of opinions from a Thursday meeting of municipal leaders.

SURVEY OPPOSED

Most representatives were against the hospital survey, although they offered tentative approval for the proposed board's other functions: regional police, community planning, fireworks and takeover of the region's joint sewer survey.

At the meeting, several representatives had requested water and health services be included in a joint services board.

WATER PROBLEM
But Mr. Campbell said Friday there is a technical problem involved in including water, as the Greater Victoria Water District has been established by an act of the legislature.

However, the minister did say he is prepared to include a survey of present and future water needs as one of the functions of a capital region joint services board.

HEALTH OUT
It would eventually lead the board to taking over regional water services, he said.

But Mr. Campbell does not want to include metro health in a proposed joint services board.

He would rather the area municipalities "get the feel of the vehicle" for joint services before adding too many services.

MEMBERS DECIDE
At that point, the initiative for the formation of a board passes to the proposed members.

They either approve each function or take it to the ratifiers for a decision.

In the case of the unorganized areas, a petition signed by 10 per cent of the ratepayers must be presented to the government before a vote is held.

MORE HOPEFUL
Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said removal of the hospital survey from the board's recommended functions "speaks well for the success of the other components."

And the possible inclusion of water "is only logical, in that this is a primary regional service," he added.

Reeve Curtis praised Mr. Campbell and his department for "making a very sincere attempt to find a solution to some of these pressing regional problems without destroying local autonomy ..."

"Painful Process"

City Uncertain How High to Go

Just how high should a high-rise be—and how long?

Present city restriction on height is 12 storeys, and aldermen and planners, meeting together Friday, decided that 190 feet is long enough if the view from other buildings or sites is not going to be obstructed.

But the meeting wasn't too positive, particularly on the matter of height.

"START WITH FEAR"
"It may be that we are passing through a painful process that many communities experience," said Mayor Wilson.

"We start off with a fear of high buildings and then are forced through circumstances to allow them to be built. We find we can tolerate them and then, in time, begin to find them attractive and a real asset to the city," he added.

Advisory commission member J. H. Wade said he liked to see high buildings if they were well set back. There were sites in Victoria ideal for such edifices.

"What we are concerned about is preventing a wall of buildings along our shoreline. This is where we feel restrictions on length will be useful," Mr. Wade said.

The 190-foot figure was arrived at after long study, comparison with what is being done in other cities, and application of a complicated formula, Mr. Wade said. It took many factors into consideration, not the least of which was the inducement for builders to angle their buildings, because length was measured to some extent along the street line.

Boat's Light in Night Brought Help to Lost

A wandering mariner who lost his way in Baynes Channel near Cadboro Bay in heavy seas Friday was guided in by the cruiser Lalanga II from Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Barnes of Vancouver were bound for Cadboro Bay but lost their way as night fell.

A citizen saw the boat flashing a light and phoned police, who in turn called RVYC and Oak Bay Marina. Two boats put out.

Lalanga II's skipper, Capt. Dick James, spotted the 20-foot sailing craft Argo and guided it into the yacht club harbor.

IODE Fete Nets $150

At the recent meeting of Florence Nightingale Chapter, IODE, Mrs. B. Harvey, general convener of the recent coffee party held at the Denison Road home of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Sullivan, reported that more than $150 had been realized at this affair.

Mrs. G. H. Swainston, second vice-president, presided at the meeting held at the Newport Avenue home of Mrs. A. J. Craddock.

Services at home and abroad secretary, Mrs. C. Baker, reported 77 knitted baby sets, socks and two quilts had been sent to Korea. Special mention was made of Mrs. R. Goff and Mrs. A. Richardson, not members of the Chapter, who are busy knitting for this project.

Mrs. J. Hamilton gave an interesting talk on medicine in Japan. She also reported on the news of a new drug for gonorrhea having been developed in Australia.

The sum of $50 was sent to the Municipal Chapter to be given to St. Joseph's Hospital toward purchase of X-ray equipment.

An additional sum of $25 will be sent to the Jessie R. Burke Memorial cancer fund.

A garden party will be held June 30 in Nansimo at the home of Mrs. J. Burns, Departure Bay Road. Members are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDougall of Bickerton Court celebrated their golden wedding day anniversary on Thursday. They gave a party for

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am an unwed mother who feels she is speaking for all unwed mothers who have gone through the agonizing experience of giving up a child.

The letter that prompted me to write was signed "Grateful." She was the woman who thanked the young unwed mother who gave up her baby. "Grateful" wished the young mother to know that she blessed her in her night prayers for having the courage and unselfishness to give up her baby. I read her letter on the very day I gave up my own beautiful son. Her letter gave me the strength and the courage I needed that day. I want to thank her from the bottom of my heart.

I pray that the couple who adopted my son will do as "Grateful" has done—let him know that I gave him up because I loved him and I wanted him to have the normal, happy life I could not give him.

STRONGER NOW. Dear Stronger Now: Thank you for those words. I'm sure your letter will make other girls who share the problem stronger too.

Dear Ann Landers: I married a man I love very much. He is 22 years old. But I am worried about him. He still has temper tantrums.

If he is putting around in his wood shop and makes a mistake he curses and screams. Then he throws things and breaks up the furniture. Once when he pounded his fists against the basement wall he broke his hand.

If I say anything to him he shouts, "It was YOUR fault. You made me do it." Of course this makes no sense since I wasn't even in the room at the time.

We've been married only six months. He has destroyed several lamps and some of our nicest pieces of furniture. I wonder where all this will end. Can you tell me how to get him to control his temper? Not knowing when he is going to blow up is making me a nervous wreck.

AFRAID.

Dear Afraid: Living in the eye of a hurricane, as you are, would make anyone a nervous wreck. I hope you'll do something about it for your health and safety's sake as well as for his.

A 22-year-old who reacts to frustration and anger in an infantile manner needs professional help. Insist that he go to his physician and ask for guidance or "all this" could end up in a morgue.

Dear Ann: I've been going with Clayton for three years. He says he loves me and we've talked of marriage. Since we aren't children any longer I've told him I see no reason to wait. I want to get married now.

Clayton says the problem is money. I know this is only an excuse because we both have good incomes, paid-for furniture, cars and savings.

I believe Clayton is afraid of marriage. I know, too, that he is very much attached to his mother. She keeps house for him and often he brings her along when we have dinner and go to the theatre.

I told Clayton last week that two men at work have shown an interest in me and if he's not serious about marriage I'd like to date them. He became furious.

I am tired of waiting. But it's not just marriage I want, it's him. What should I do?—HELP.

Dear Help: If you must hit a man over the head to get him to marry you, what good is that marriage.

My advice is to accept invitations from the others. If Clayton doesn't beg you to set a date within three months, try to forget him because he will never marry you. He'll just keep you tied up so nobody else can.

Tribute Paid To Priest

Rev Lewis McLellan was honored at a parish reception Sunday evening at Queen of Peace Hall, where a large congregation assembled to pay tribute for his 21 years of service.

Lt. Col. L. McCooley made a presentation of a purse of money on behalf of the parishioners. Presentations were also made by Mr. H. Jordens on behalf of the choir, and Russell Revoy for the Altar Boys. Father in reply warmly thanked all the parishioners for their loyalty, and personal kindness to him.

Special guests included Rev. Father D. B. Mulcahy, a classmate and friend of more than 50 years; Rev. Father W. J. O'Brien of Langford; and Brothers from St. Louis College.

The master of ceremonies was Mr. W. J. Edgington and the Catholic Women's League served delicious refreshments.

Today's Bride

Showers Fete Marion Small

Miss Marion Small has been feted at a round of shower parties in honor of her marriage which takes place this afternoon.

She was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the members of St. John's Junior Auxiliary of which she is the leader. The table and cake were decorated in yellow and green, the J.A. colors.

The bride-elect was presented with a corsage of pink carnations and a breakfast set.

A set of forks with the Cub crest was presented to Marion Small by St. John's Second Camosun Cub Pack at its closing meeting. A "Thanks Badge" was also presented to the bride-elect in recognition of her four years as assistant cubmaster.

In addition she received a buffet server from the group committee of the Cub Pack and Scout Troop.

No Limit

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Women have the same opportunity as men to forge ahead in the department of external affairs, said Gay Sellers of Ottawa, a member of the department.

There is no limit to the heights to which a woman can rise in the department, she said, in an interview. "There are no restrictions on women. We have a Canadian woman ambassador to Austria, Margaret Meagher."

Elects Officers

Mrs. L. Spencer was elected president of St. Joseph's School of Nursing Alumnae at the recent annual dinner meeting.

Honorary president is Sister Mary Ann Celeste and honorary vice-president is Sister Mary Justina.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. Johnston, first vice-president; Mrs. B. McLaren, second vice-president; Mrs. E. Whately, recording secretary; Mrs. H. Hilton, correspondence secretary and Mrs. D. Moore, treasurer.

OAK BAY STORE HAS TEA PARTY

Saturday, June 26th—The Jack Burgess Men's and Ladies' Store will be eight years old. To celebrate this event Jack and Joan invite you to drop in for tea and crumpets on this gala day.

Meet Phyllis Lindstrom, Eleanor Kent, Anne Sears and Alice Parkin in our Ladies' Wear Department. They will show you fashions from seven petite through misses' to half sizes. Each item in sportswear, dresses or coats has been carefully selected for customers of Vancouver Island.

Let Jack Burgess and Bert Kent show off their "New Baby," "The Tempo Shop," and enjoy a free coke. This department is for young men and boys starting at age seven. For the men, Harrois jackets and matching slacks are a specialty. That's at the JACK BURGESS Men's and Ladies' Wear Store, "Behind the Tread Curtain," Oak Bay at Humpshire. Be seeing you — Jack, Joan and Staff.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Youth and dreams go together, there isn't any doubt about that. However, many lose their dreams when it comes right down to it, and others get side-tracked or swayed by sheer circumstances.

Not so little Judy Bowler. She knew what she wanted, worked hard to get it and now is looking back on a successful year.

Judy's dream is to become a top rate horsewoman. And her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bowler, are justly proud of her.

"Judy has lost her heart to Ireland—she's in a horsey heaven" says her mother.

Leaving here a year ago this month, Judy was first a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alpen Wait of Buntary, County Cork.

The Waites took their keen young horsewoman to several shows and on tours of much of the south and west coastal regions.

It was during this time that through a mutual friend Judy was contacted by Col. Hume Dudgeon, owner of the world famous riding school of Burren Hall and offered her a groom apprenticeship at his place.

After a two week tryout she was accepted and her cup was full.

This meant that from morning till night she did little else except work, study and sleep.

Riding world greats like Norton, Matheson and Butters are only interested in the best and often such going is sought on a young person. Not a dedicated horsewoman like Judy, though.

As she progressed her duties became more varied and she was sent as groom or helper with Burren Hall horses to shows throughout Ireland.

A week at the Dublin Horse Show gave her an inside look on Olympic competition and an opportunity to mingle with the teams present.

One of the highlights of recent months was giving weekly instruction to the children of Elizabeth Taylor, the famous movie star.

Judy has just passed examinations completing her apprenticeship. For those with more wewerthall, the course costs $1,200 for six months.

But Judy didn't have that kind of money and she worked her way through the way she has done from the beginning.

Examination time meant the arrival of British Horse Society inspector from England, who took each student through three hours of riding, half hour instructing, one and a half to two hour oral test and an hour written examination. Judy passed fifth in a class of 15.

Col. Dudgeon is allowing Judy to stay on at Burren Hall and at the moment her plans are not too definite. She would like to see something of Europe and even Africa before coming back to either Canada or the U.S.

In the meantime there are tentative plans to accompany a young rider to Rome.

Bread and Water

It will be a real Hunger Tea that the Victoria Committee of Oxfam are holding a week today at the home of Mrs. John Featherstone at 2475 Cotswold.

Don't go expecting gourmet fare for you will only be served bread and water. And you are not supposed to think you are in jail. You are expected to think about the unfortunate people of this world who are not only hungry but starving.

Oxfam is providing "food for the soul" in the form of musical entertainment in the garden. The musical talent is a contribution to the fund and a silver collection will be taken from those attending.

The bread and water will be served from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Take the Uplands bus.

Tea Guests

Mrs. M. Watts entertained members of the First United Church choir and guests at afternoon tea recently in her attractive garden at her Deal Street home. Mrs. Watts is president of the group.

Among the guests were Rev. and Mrs. R. J. D. Morris and Mr. and Mrs. John Dunbar who had just recently arrived from Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robson of Galiano Island announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Carol May, to Mr. Michael Glen Rycroft, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Rycroft of Vancouver. The wedding will take place at St. Chad's Anglican Church, Vancouver, on July 16. Miss Robson spent her earlier years on Galiano and Salt Spring Island, finishing her schooling in Vancouver. Mr. Rycroft, who was born in Victoria, is a graduate of University of British Columbia with a B.Sc. in electrical engineering. — (Miss Robson's photo by Campbell, Vancouver)

Strawberry Tea In New Building

The new Christian Education Building at Esquimalt United Church was the setting for a strawberry tea presented by the United Church Women recently.

Mrs. G. Mackay, president, and Mrs. H. Turpin, wife of the church minister, received guests.

Presiding at the tea table which was centered with an arrangement of multi-colored daisies were Mrs. G. Cook, Mrs. F. Kettles and Mrs. A. Howell.

Mrs. A. Cuthbert convoked the affair.

In charge of the home-cooking stalls were Mrs. T. Plume, Mrs. R. Wade, Mrs. T. Cheston and Mrs. H. Martin. Baby-sitting were Mrs. J. Duncan, Mrs. R. Leach and Mrs. S. Downs.

Assisting with the tea were Mrs. F. Wheeler, Mrs. D. Taylor, Mrs. A. Ferguson, Mrs. R. Holt, Mrs. R. Atkinson, Mrs. R. Elphick, Mrs. A. Crouch, Mrs. G. Stancombe, Mrs. L. Melchior, Mrs. E. Harbison, Mrs. G. Ball and Mrs. A. Gibson. Tickets were taken by Mrs. F. A. White.

Shopping Easier

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet housewife's daily shopping is gradually becoming easier. But it is still much more difficult than in the West.

Premier Alexei Kosygin has announced an all-out effort to raise the standard of home-produced goods and make enough of them to satisfy everyone's wants.

Many of the methods his economic experts intend to use are well tried in the capitalist world but were anathema to old-style Stalinist planners. Russians insist, however, that their country is not "going capitalist," because the means of production remains in public ownership.

This year 400 factories making clothes and shoes have stopped taking their orders from the planners. They now supply the shops with what they know their customers will buy.

Shopping can still take a long time. On a busy day it can take 20 minutes of queuing to buy a loaf of bread. But every month newspapers all over the Soviet Union report the opening of new shops.

Most shops still have cash desks separate from the counters, so that sometimes a housewife has to line up three times to make one purchase—first to choose, then to pay and then to collect her purchases.

SPECIAL SHOPS
For the privileged shopper who has Western currency there are a handful of special shops where everything from a bottle of milk to a carpet is readily available.

Quebec, Louisiana Plan Culture Swap

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Secretary of State W. Markham said Friday Louisiana and the province of Quebec were working out an exchange agreement based on their common French heritage. The proposed cultural agreement deals with students, French civil law, exhibitions, theatre, speakers and historical tours.

Big Jet Crashes 84 People Die

EL TORO, Calif., (UPI) — A giant jet-engine military transport plunged blindly into a fog-shrouded mountain and exploded shortly after takeoff early Friday. The crash killed all 84 people aboard — including 72 U.S. marines bound for Viet Nam.

There were no survivors in one of the worst military air disasters in peacetime history.

NO EXPLANATION

The C-130 air transport, military counterpart of the commercial Boeing 707 jetliner, completely broke up when it smashed into the mountain north of the end of the runway from which it took off moments before.

There was no immediate explanation why the big transport didn't easily clear the mountain instead of impacting about 75 feet below the top. The jet-transport smashed into the treeless, desolate knoll after flying on almost a straight line from the point of takeoff.

The largest single piece of wreckage was the flattened out cockpit area, about 10 feet in diameter. The pilot's body lay inside.

The jet carried a full load of 8,000 gallons of fuel.

Charrington Toby

a great English beer.
Now brewed in British Columbia.

So now you can treat your Canadian friends to that English beer you've been telling them about.

Toby's a typical English beer, made with real English hops, toasted barley-malt, and patience.

So it has more bite and less gas than Canadian beers. And a deep-amber colour.

Since it's English beer, remember, you should serve it at English pub temperature. Not warm, heaven forbid.

A real English beer brewed in Canada.

China Roasts UN:

U.S., Russia Plot To Control Globe

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China today accused the United States and Russia of controlling the United Nations in a joint attempt to dominate the world.

Mrs. Moran

Cleared But Jobless

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—An 18-month suspension against a part-time social worker whose outspoken criticism of British Columbia government welfare services caused a province-wide controversy, has been lifted.

But Mrs. Bridget Moran said Friday that while she has been informed that the suspension is lifted, she has also been told that there are no vacancies for her at the Prince George welfare office where she was employed previously.

She said she received her notice by letter.

A MISTAKE?

The letter had made no mention of its being necessary to cease her criticism of the department and she said she will continue to make statements about the welfare department if she thinks it necessary.

She said she feels that the lack of a job in the Prince George office was a mistake. There had been an understanding that when the suspension was lifted she would go back to work.

In January, 1964, Mrs. Moran sent an open letter to Premier Bennett in which she criticized the lack of social workers and the lack of treatment facilities in the province, particularly in the northern areas.

The charge was made in an editorial published in Peking's Peoples Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist Party.

Observing the 20th anniversary of the world body, China said it was being dominated mainly by the United States and the only way to cure its ills was through complete reorganization. (See also Page 3.)

UNTRUSTWORTHY BODY

The editorial said "more and more people have realized that the United Nations is untrustworthy and unreliable because it is dominated by the U.S."

"However, the Khrushchev revisionists have deliberately been trying to cover up the truth and spreading illusions about the United Nations," it said.

"They praise it to the skies, saying that it is an 'organ of equal international co-operation' designed to preserve and strengthen peace," the paper said. "Why are they so fond of the United Nations controlled by Washington?" it asked.

POLITICAL TOOL

"The reason is simply that they want the U.N. to be a centre for political transactions between the Soviet Union and the U.S. and a tool for paving the way for Soviet-U.S. co-operation to dominate the world."

The editorial noted that in 1950 the Soviet Union voted for the U.S. proposal to use the UN banner and organize a UN force.

Kanester Guilty Of Raping Coed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lawrence Kenneth Kanester was found guilty Friday by an Assize Court jury of the rape of an 18-year-old University of Victoria student Jan. 20, 1964.

Kanester, 25, will be sentenced Tuesday by Mr. Justice A. G. Rutan. He had previously been convicted of the same offence and sentenced to 16 years, but won his appeal for a new trial two months ago.

Workmen rush to complete parley palace before blast

Pre-Summit Bomb

ALGIERS (AP)—A violent explosion Friday night wrecked part of the main electric power relay station in the building erected for the Afro-Asian summit conference.

A government spokesman said two workmen were injured in the explosion. Unconfirmed reports said the explosion was caused by a bomb which killed at least five persons.

These reports could not be checked because the conference area at the Club des Pins, on a sand dune overlooking the Mediterranean 12 miles west of Algiers, was ringed by armed troops and riot police who barred access to all outsiders.

Violence at the conference site, anti-government demonstrations downtown Friday night and a sense of general unrest made it seem more and more probable that the summit meeting will at least be postponed.

Hundreds of demonstrators marched into the heart of the city at the evening rush hour, shouting "down with dictatorship" and demanding restoration to power of deposed president Ahmed Ben Bella.

Motorcycle police drove head-on into the columns of marchers and others fired repeatedly into the air and threw tear gas in an effort to put down the latest demonstration.

B.C. Ship Hit-Run By Soviet 'Mother'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver fishing skipper Friday charged a Russian ship with hit-and-run of the high seas.

Leif Turvik, 61-year-old skipper of the halibut Pacific Wave, said a Russian fishing fleet mother ship rammed his vessel in the Gulf of Alaska while he was at anchor and moved off without offering assistance.

DAMAGE $5,000

He said everyone on the Pacific Wave had turned in for sleep and the ship was riding at anchor when the Russian mother ship's flaring bow sliced into the halibuter's wheelhouse and cabin housing, causing about $5,000 worth of damage.

He said the Russian vessel was underway but not under her own power. She was being pushed by a catcher boat.

WITHOUT SHOES

Turvik described how he ran "around the deck in my underwear, without shoes on and there was a Russian standing

Commonwealth:

FOUR POINTS FOR PEACE

- Stop bombing
- Halt Red help
- Ceasefire
- Peace parley

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth proposed Friday a four-point peace plan for Viet Nam which would end American bombing of North Viet Nam and movement of troops and supplies from North Viet Nam to the south.

In sequence, the third point would provide a ceasefire and the fourth a peace conference. One aim of that conference would be to negotiate removal of all foreign—including American—troops from Viet Nam.

Other aims would be restoration of the unity of Viet Nam and its establishment as a neutral state. (See also Page 3.)

EXCLUDE CHINA

In a communique ending nine days of talks, the prime minister and presidents of the Commonwealth also urged ways should be found to exclude China with future discussions on disarmament.

Before the communique was issued, Britain's Prime Minister Wilson indicated the Commonwealth's proposed Viet Nam peace mission—one of the major undertakings of the conference—might even start its planned round-the-world flight.

He told a press conference no decision had been made on whether the four-man mission will go to Saigon and Washington if Hanoi refused it admission.

China and Russia have already barred the door to the commonwealth envoys and the

'Wilson Can't Talk Peace'

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Worker has published an interview with North Vietnamese President Ho Chi-minh saying British Prime Minister Wilson "cannot engage in peace negotiations" on Viet Nam.

"Mr. Wilson has not correctly carried out his obligations as co-chairman of the 1954 Geneva conference on Viet Nam. He has tried to support United States imperialist aggression in Viet Nam," Ho is quoted.

Officer Convicted Refused Viet Post

NAMA, Okinawa (AP)—A U.S. Army general court-martialed sergeant Friday convicted Capt. Richard R. Steinko, 37, of Milwaukee, Wis., of refusing to join a special mission communitarian unit in South Viet Nam last January.

The argument of the lieutenant was that he disagreed with U.S. policy in Viet Nam and that the war there "is not worth one American life."

The board, headed by Col. John Beebe of Los Angeles, deliberated less than an hour.

When the board retired to consider sentence, expected some time Saturday, it could sentence the young officer to dismissal from the U.S. military service, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and five years of hard labor at the maximum.

Saigon Curfew Late, 29 Dead

Bombs Blast Restaurant Streets Slick with Blood

SAIGON (AP)—Two powerful terrorist bombs exploded in quick succession beside a crowded floating restaurant on the Saigon River Friday night, killing at least 29 persons and wounding about 100. Five or six Americans and a Frenchman were among the dead.

Witnesses had believed the death toll might reach 50. The terrorist strike, staged about 500 yards from the U.S. Radio Hanoi, that the Viet Cong's kind ever seen in this South Vietnamese capital at any time during the Vietnamese war.

The blasts boomed from the shore about 8:15 p.m., slashing across the humorously-appointed deck of the restaurant, the My Canh, falling strillers on the riverside boulevard and smashing windows as far as two blocks away.

It was a violent sequel to a Communist announcement, broadcast six hours earlier by the South Vietnamese government's execution of several Viet Cong terrorists.

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist Viet Cong guerrillas attacked and overran a government installation and an artillery position today, only 15 miles west of Saigon.

Observers said it seemed possible the Communists were opening a major offensive.

A dispatch from Hanoi by the Soviet news agency Tass declared American jets appeared over that capital and drew anti-aircraft fire. It said that, in this and other action, five planes were downed. There was no independent confirmation.

BOMBER STRIKE

Among other developments of the day:

In the air war, a U.S. spokesman announced U.S. Air Force jet bombers struck an ammunition depot and the Na San airfield northwest of Hanoi and destroyed buildings at both points in North Viet Nam.

A dispatch from Hanoi by the Soviet news agency Tass declared American jets appeared over that capital and drew anti-aircraft fire. It said that, in this and other action, five planes were downed. There was no independent confirmation.

LOSSES DENIED

In Washington, the Pentagon denied any American planes were lost over Hanoi. A spokesman declined to comment when asked whether American air-

Biggest One Still Captive

Killer Whale Slips Through Nets

By IAN SMITH

Charlie White hasn't got his killer whale—yet, but he's still hoping.

Mr. White arrived home empty-handed from Namu Friday, impressed by the whale which three commercial fishermen have trapped in nets against a reef near the upmost canning community.

A second whale, the smaller of the two, escaped Thursday night.

Mr. White, owner of Victoria's Undersea Gardens, had hoped to purchase one of the whales for his establishment—but he has his problems.

The fishermen are holding out for more money—but they're worried about the possibility of a second escape, and may change their minds at any moment.

If they can hold out for a week or so, they can practically name their price from representatives of Marineland of the Pacific at Los Angeles. If they sell right now, Dr. Murray Newman of the Vancouver aquarium (which last year caught Moby Doll) is ready with outstretched arms but considerably less money.

He could take charge of the killer with virtually no advance preparation.

In between stands Mr. White, who needs a bit of time—but not as much as Marineland—to get into the act.

"Nobody knows what will happen," said Mr. White as he stepped off the plane at 7 p.m. Friday. "Nothing was concluded."

"It's just a matter of how much the fishermen want to gamble. Marineland is ready to take the whale—and money seems to be no object—but they need a week or so to get things in order."

"It's difficult for me to match their bids, but at the same time, the fishermen are worried about letting their last whale escape, too."

He said Marineland had offered "more than $20,000" for the beast, which is about 20 feet long and perhaps 9,000 pounds in weight.

It is trapped by a series of nets strung off a reef. He thinks the little whale escaped during high tide, when the net perhaps floated off the bottom at one corner.

The one remaining impressed him plenty, however. "It's really something, that whale. It's one thing to sit down here and talk about it—but to go up there and see that magnificent animal, a dorsal fin four feet high."

Whether they get the whale or not, one thing is decided: they are going ahead with construction of a suitable pen at the Undersea Gardens.

"We have to have the pen ready," said Mr. White. "If not for this one, for something else. You can never tell when something like this is going to happen."

Cobble Hill

New Self-Propelled Swather Makes Haying Job a Cinch

COBBLE HILL — A new $4,250 self-propelled swather built in Kansas makes haying a cinch on the dairy farm of Dougan Holdings Ltd., at Cobble Hill.

Similar to a combine, the eight-foot machine cuts, conditions and windrows the grass.

Operator of the swather, third-year Victoria University student Ian Whitehead, said the conditioning process dries grass between 20 and 40 per cent faster.

The special machine was bought from the American firm because Canadian makes are too big for Vancouver Island farms.

The Hesson 110, is probably the first machine of its kind on the Island. Similar but larger swathers are widely used in the U.S. and in other parts of Canada.

Fines Total $395 For Youth

COURTENAY — A 15-year-old Ladner youth, formerly of Courtenay, was fined a total of $395 on four charges here Thursday and was remanded for further hearing on a fifth charge by Magistrate John Ryland.

Barry Dennis Caldwell was fined $150 and bound over to keep the peace for 12 months after he was found guilty of obstructing a policeman.

He was also fined $30 for failing to submit an accident report; $25 and had his license suspended for 30 days and was fined $300 for a second offence of consuming liquor in a public place. He pleaded guilty to all three charges. He was remanded on a fifth charge of disturbing the peace.

The charges arose from a fracas outside the CRA hall May 24 when RCMP Const. Larry Boas went to arrest a juvenile.

Gold Keg Beer makes merry with the tough old salts of Bristol.

Bless 'em.

In Bristol there are dozens of old pubs that are favoured by ex-Navy men.

Grand boardwalkers all.

During Operation Gold Keg we spent many an hour in these pubs, testing Canada's celebrated Gold Keg Beer on the old salts.

Who, of course, loved it.

You see, Gold Keg is brewed with men in mind. Men who love a hearty, mellow kind of beer. A deep-flavoured beer.

So it's no surprise that Gold Keg is making friends all over England. And it's no surprise that Englishmen (bless 'em) compare it to their favourite English beers.

Why don't you try Gold Keg for a change? It's a grand brew for a man who likes beer.

Bless you.

Labatt's brews Gold Keg Beer from the finest imported Hops and Malt.

Better Than Sweep Ticket

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Guppy of Tofino feel they have something better than sweepstake ticket. Mr. Guppy is holding sample of copper ore found at site of rediscovered copper vein on Clay-

At Campbell River

Everybody Geared For Holiday Fun

CAMPBELL RIVER—This year's July 1 celebrations promise to be the best yet, with entertainment for everyone, from children's races to tree-climbing by experts.

Dan McKensie, Chamber of Commerce committee chairman and co-ordinator of sports events, said service clubs in the area had co-operated so that entertainment would continue throughout the day.

The celebrations start off with a pre-holiday dance June 30, sponsored by the Lions Club.

SALMON DERBY

The Junior Chamber of Commerce salmon derby starts at dawn July 1, with the final weigh-in at 10 a.m., to ensure contestants will have time to reach the downtown area for the big parade which starts at 10:30 a.m.

Four bands and a variety of floats have been entered in the Rotary Club parade, which will cross the downtown area from Sixth Avenue and the Island Highway to Elm Street school.

CARNIVAL

After the parade the Elks Club will swing into action with their children's sports at the Tye Plaza. There will be prizes for the children, pony rides and a carnival for the children.

Loggers' sports start at 1:30 p.m. on the vacant lot opposite the Coach Lines depot, with top woodsmen of the north island competing for the $400 in prize money.

A highlight of the afternoon will be an exhibition of tree-climbing by local logger Ernie Alexander, the man who taught famous high-rigger Danny Sallor.

There will also be a choker-man's race, eye-splicing, tug-of-war, speed climbing and log birling.

Bingo, square dancing and airplane rides are also planned during the day.

Police Just Laugh

PORT ALBERNI—Cyclist Cliff Neydell of Port Alberni was clocked at 61 miles an hour in a 45 miles per hour zone on his way to Winnipeg, but police officers laughed it off.

Cliff, who is on a cross-Canada-and-return trip on his Italian bike, was picked up in a police radar screen as he was going uphill around a slow sloping corner over a railway viaduct.

"The highway patrol officer laughed when he saw my bike," Cliff said in a report back to Port Alberni, "and he was still laughing when he went back to his car. 'The secret was I had a 30-40 mile per hour wind behind me,' Cliff reports.

The Port Alberni cyclist, who left here June 1 bound for Newfoundland, came a cropper 27 miles short of Winnipeg after chalking up 1,558 miles. He went over the handlebars of his 12-speed bike when two spokes popped. He made his report from Winnipeg as he waited for repairs.

He is still in good fettle although he has lost 28 pounds since he left here. So far, he says, "I have seen and been through sunsets, dawns, snowfalls (six inches at Banff), thunder and cloudbursts."

At one stage he passed Helen Atwood and her pal, who are headed across Canada on horseback. They were three hours ahead of Cliff at Moose Jaw but he was ahead going into Winnipeg. He believes they might be ahead again due to his enforced wait in Winnipeg. Thus far they haven't met.

Air, Sea, Land Search

Troller Lost Off Tofino

TOFINO—An intensive air, sea and land search for a missing troller with one man aboard, has failed to turn up any sign of the 36-foot vessel.

Nanaimo

Clinic Needs 1,200

NANAIMO—People who have never donated blood before and longtime donors were asked to turn out July 7 and 8 when a blood donor clinic will be held at Royal Canadian Legion Branch 19 on Wallace Street.

Fred Cooper of the Nanaimo Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society said 1,200 pints of blood are needed.

Mr. Cooper said last year more blood was used at Nanaimo Regional General Hospital than was donated in the community. He said 1,514 pints of blood were used but only 1,208 pints had been collected in blood donor clinics.

TO BLOOD BANK

All blood collected goes to the Red Cross blood bank in Vancouver.

The clinics will be open at the Legion Hall from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each day.

To mark the progress of the blood drive, a 100-painted balloons with 100 painted on them will be released after each 100 pints has been donated. Mr. Cooper said 12 balloons will be attached to a window of the Legion building overlooking Wallace Street.

At a meeting of the Red Cross branch at 8 p.m. June 30, certificates will be given to persons who have donated blood 30 times. The ceremonies will be at the Central Vancouver Island health unit.

Three Hurt In Flipped Sports Car

TOFINO—Two young people have been released from Tofino General hospital and another is resting comfortably after the sports car in which they were riding overturned at a corner of the road three and a half miles from Ucluelet.

The troller Kerry Junior with owner Ken Gibson of Vancouver aboard, was last seen Thursday morning south of Leonard Island lighthouse on its way to the fishing grounds with other boats.

Its failure to return to Tofino Thursday night sparked an all-out search by the Tofino lifeboat, the Coast Guard cutter Ready, RCAF aircraft from Comox, the RCMP and fishing vessels.

EVERY BEACH

Every beach, inlet and bay and all the waters from Tofino to Estevan Point have been searched.

Members of the Ucluelet RCMP detachment have covered all the beaches at Ucluelet, Wickanishish and Long Beach and another search party has scoured the beaches and bays up to Estevan Point.

NO EVIDENCE

So far no evidence of the missing vessel has been found. Mr. Gibson, whose family of three live in Vancouver, has been fishing out of Tofino for the past few years.

RCMP said the Kerry Junior has no radio aboard so would have been unable to send out messages.

The search, called off at dusk Friday night, will be continued today.

Chemainus Study Financed

An urban renewal study of the town of Chemainus will be supported by a federal grant of $7,500 to the corporation of the district of North Cowichan, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation reported in Ottawa Friday.

The study, to be undertaken by consultant John Maitland-Carter, will take six months. The federal government is paying 75 per cent of the total cost of $10,000.

Cowichan Exhibition Grounds

Land Taxes Skyrocket, Owners May Make Deal

DUNCAN—The Cowichan Exhibition Board and Cowichan Agricultural Society were so shocked at the increase in the tax assessment on their land they may unload it on North Cowichan municipality and lease it back for $1 a year.

When the two groups received the tax notices for the land on which they stage the annual Cowichan Exhibition, they learned the assessment for the property had skyrocketed to $11,500 from $3,500 last year.

TAXES PAID

The exhibition board owns 3.72 acres and the agriculture society one acre. Tax for the former this year is $553 and for the latter $206. In the meantime the taxes have been paid. The municipality of North Cowichan and the city of Duncan also own parcels of land bringing the total acreage at the Cowichan Exhibition grounds to almost nine acres.

Questioned about the sharp increase in assessment, North Cowichan municipal clerk A. Vandecasteele said the assessment is based on the value of land and the value of land in that area is very high.

BEST ANSWER

He said the simplest solution would be for the Cowichan Exhibition Board to convey its property to the municipality and lease it back at $1 a year.

Is Confederate Counterfeit?

South Rises Again—Briefly

PORT ALBERNI—The Confederate States may have lost the Civil War but it looked like their money was good for a short time earlier this week.

Magistrate W. E. MacLeod was told that not only did Janho Kevric of Alberni persuade a motel owner to cash a Confederate $50 bill but he was paid $3.50 exchange for it.

Kevric is charged with passing a counterfeit note. Prosecutor Robert Ohs, who entered the bill as evidence, said it bore a date of the 1860s and was inscribed "refundable in Confederate stock bearing 8 per cent interest."

Court was told Kevric attempted to cash the note at the Beaufort Hotel but a waiter refused it. At the motel he got cash plus exchange.

Questioned by defence lawyer George Badovinac, RCMP Cpl. V. D. R. Wilson said that in his opinion the bill was not legal tender anywhere "as the Confederate States lost the war."

Magistrate MacLeod reserved decision until Monday morning.

For Gold River Townsite

B.C. Sells Land To Tahsis Firm

The provincial government announced Friday that it has sold 623 acres of Crown reserve to the Tahsis Co. for the new Gold River townsite.

The price, disclosed in a cabinet order, was $62,300. The 623 acres, formerly part of the Kuyquot forest reserve, was removed from reserve so that the sale could be made. The price was $100 an acre.

AT RIVER JUNCTION

The townsite, at the junction of the Gold and Heber Rivers, is eight miles east of the present logging community of Gold River, where Tahsis plans to build a $60,000,000 pulp mill.

Another cabinet order has granted a six-month lease of Crown land in northern B.C.

to Alexandra Forest Industries for a sawmill site. The company will pay $1,000 for use of the 300-acre site near Morice Lake, north of Prince George.

Somenos Area

Water Vote Today

NORTH COWICHAN—Taxpayers in the Somenos Veterans Land Act subdivision and on Drinkwater and Bell McKinnon Roads go to the polls today to decide whether they want the municipality to install a $125,000 water system.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the municipal hall.

TWO BLOCKS

The 150 eligible voters in the area will vote in two blocks, some 22 property owners in the VLA subdivision and about 118 taxpayers in the remaining area.

In both areas the vote must pass by 60 per cent before the four-mile water line can be built.

The water will be supplied by the city of Duncan and the monthly water bill from North Cowichan municipality to the individual user will amount to $10. The connection fee will be $100.

Fire Hazard Going On Benson

NANAIMO—A 3,000-acre fire hazard is being cleared from Mount Benson in a project that began last week and will be completed within 18 months.

The area was burned off in 1951 by a forest fire. An official of the B.C. forest service here said the land clearing resulted from an agreement between the forest service and land-owners MacMillan, Macdonald and Powell River Limited, the Crown, the E. & N. Railway and Northern Development Company of Seattle and Everett, Wash.

Mrs. Moran

Cleared But Jobless

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—An 18-month suspension against a part-time social worker whose outspoken criticism of British Columbia government welfare services caused a province-wide controversy, has been lifted. But Mrs. Bridget Moran said Friday that while she has been informed that the suspension is lifted, she has also been told that there are no vacancies for her at the Prince George welfare office where she was employed previously. She said she received her notice by letter. A MISTAKE? The letter had made no mention of its being necessary to cease her criticism of the department and she said she will continue to make statements about the welfare department if she thinks it necessary. She said she feels that the lack of a job in the Prince George office was a mistake. There had been an understanding that when the suspension was lifted she would go back to work. In January, 1964, Mrs. Moran sent an open letter to Premier Bennett in which she criticized the lack of social workers and the lack of treatment facilities in the province, particularly in the northern areas.

Kanester Guilty Of Raping Coed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lawrence Kenneth Kanester was found guilty Friday by an Assize Court jury of the rape of an 18-year-old University of Victoria student Jan. 20, 1964.

Kanester, 25, will be sentenced Tuesday by Mr. Justice A. G. Ertan. He had previously been convicted of the same offence and sentenced to 10 years, but won his appeal for a new trial two months ago.

Workmen rush to complete parley palace before blast

Pre-Summit Bomb

ALGIERS (AP)—A violent explosion Friday night wrecked part of the main electric power relay station in the building erected for the Afro-Asian summit conference.

A government spokesman said two workmen were injured in the explosion. Unconfirmed reports said the explosion was caused by a bomb which killed at least five persons. These reports could not be checked because the conference area at the Club des Pins, on a sand dune overlooking the Mediterranean 12 miles west of Algiers, was ringed by armed troops and riot police who barred access to all outsiders.

A government spokesman said two workmen were injured in the explosion. Unconfirmed reports said the explosion was caused by a more probable: that the summit meeting will at least be postponed. Hundreds of demonstrators marched into the heart of the city at the evening rush hour, shouting "down with dictatorship" and demanding restoration of power to deposed president Ahmed Ben Bella.

Motorcycle police drove demonstrators and others fired repeatedly into the air and threw tear gas in an effort to put down the latest demonstration.

B.C. Ship Hit-Run By Soviet 'Mother'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver fishing skipper Friday charged a Russian ship with hit-and-run of the high seas.

Leif Turvik, 61-year-old skipper of the halibut Pacific Wave, said a Russian fishing fleet mother ship rammed his vessel in the Gulf of Alaska while he was at anchor and moved off without offering assistance.

DAMAGE $5,000

He said everyone on the Pacific Wave had turned in for sleep and the ship was riding at anchor when the Russian mother ship's flashing bow flood into the halibut's wheelhouse and cabin housing, causing about $5,000 worth of damage.

He said the Russian vessel was underway but not under her own power. She was being pushed by a catcher boat.

WITHOUT SHOES

Turvik described how he ran "around the deck in my underwear, without shoes on and there was a Russian standing in the bow of the ship." The Russian hollered: "Must get move away, you got move away, our engines are stopped."

The Vancouver skipper said crew members of the Pacific Wave, awakened by the impact, jotted down numbers painted on the Russian ship's side. Capt. Turvik said his insurance company has agreed to pay for the damage to the Pacific Wave and will try to collect from the Russians.

Commonwealth:

FOUR STEPS FOR PEACE

- Stop bombing
- Halt Red help
- Ceasefire
- Peace parley

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth proposed Friday a four-point peace plan for Viet Nam which would end American bombing of North Viet Nam and movement of troops and supplies from North Viet Nam to the south.

In sequence, the third point would provide a ceasefire and the fourth a peace conference.

One aim of that conference would be to negotiate removal of all foreign—including American—troops from Viet Nam.

Other aims would be restoration of the unity of Viet Nam and its establishment as a neutral state. (See also Page 3.)

INCLUDES CHINA

In a communique ending nine days of talks, the prime minister and presidents of the Commonwealth also urged ways should be found to associate China with future discussions on disarmament.

Before the communique was issued, Britain's Prime Minister Wilson indicated the Commonwealth's proposed Viet Nam peace mission—one of the major undertakings of the conference—might not even start its planned round-the-world flight.

He told a press conference no decision had been made on whether the four-man mission will go to Saigon and Washington if Hanoi refused it admission.

China and Russia have already barred the door to the commonwealth envoys and the

'Wilson Can't Talk Peace'

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Worker has published an interview with North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh saying British Prime Minister Wilson "cannot engage in peace negotiations" on Viet Nam.

"Mr. Wilson has not correctly carried out his obligations as co-chairman of the 1954 Geneva conference on Viet Nam. He has tried to support United States imperialist aggression in Viet Nam," Minh is quoted.

Officer Convicted Refused Viet Post

NAMA, Okinawa (AP)—A U.S. Army general court-martial found Friday convicted Lt. Richard R. Steinkamp, 37, of Okinawa, Wyo., of refusing to join a special invasion command guerrilla unit in South Viet Nam last January.

The argument of the lieutenant was that he disagreed with U.S. policy in Viet Nam and that the war there "is not worth one American life."

The board, headed by Col. John Beebe of Los Angeles, deliberated less than an hour.

When the board refused to consider sentence, expected some time Saturday, it could sentence the young officer to dismissal from the U.S. military service, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and five years of hard labor at the maximum.

Saigon Curfew Late, 29 Dead

Bombs Blast Restaurant Streets Slick with Blood

SAIGON (AP)—Two powerful terrorist bombs exploded in quick succession beside a crowded floating restaurant on the Saigon River Friday night, killing at least 29 persons and wounding about 100. Five or six Americans and a Frenchman were among the dead.

Witnesses had believed the death toll might reach 50.

The terrorist strike, staged about 500 yards from the U.S. Embassy, was the bloodiest of its kind ever seen in this South Vietnamese capital at any time during the Vietnamese war.

The blasts boomed from the shore about 8:15 p.m., slashing across the luxuriously-appointed decks of the restaurant, the My Camb, falling strobers on the riverside boulevard and smashing windows as far as two blocks away.

It was a violent sequel to a Communist announcement, broadcast six hours earlier by Radio Hanoi, that the Viet Cong guerrillas had killed a captive

BOMBER STRIKE

Among other developments of the day:

In the air war, a U.S. spokesman announced U.S. Air Force jet bombers struck at an ammunition depot and the Na San airfield northwest of Hanoi and destroyed buildings at both points in North Viet Nam.

A dispatch from Hanoi by the Soviet news agency Tass declared American jets appeared over that capital and drew anti-aircraft fire. It said that, in this and other action, five planes were downed. There was no independent confirmation.

LOSSES DENIED

In Washington, the Pentagon denied any American planes were lost over Hanoi. A spokesman declined to comment when asked whether American aircraft were downed.

Biggest One Still Prisoner

By IAN SMITH

Charlie White hasn't got his killer whale—yet, but he's still hoping.

Mr. White arrived home empty-handed from Namu Friday, impressed by the whale which three commercial fishermen have trapped in nets against a reef near the upstart canning community.

A second whale, the smaller of the two, escaped Thursday night.

Mr. White, owner of Victoria's Undersea Gardens, had hoped to purchase one of the whales for his establishment—but he has his problems.

The fishermen are holding out for more money—but they're worried about the possibility of a second escape, and may change their minds at any moment.

If they can hold out for a week or so, they can practically name their price from representatives of Marineland of the Pacific at Los Angeles. If they sell right now, Dr. Murray Newman of the Vancouver aquarium (which last year caught Moby Doll) is ready with outstretched arms but considerably less money.

He could take charge of the killer with virtually no advance preparation.

In between stands Mr. White, who needs a bit of time—but not as much as Marineland—to get into the act.

"Nobody knows what will happen," said Mr. White as he stepped off the plane at 7 p.m. Friday. "Nothing was concluded."

"It's just a matter of how much the fishermen want to gamble. Marineland is ready to take the whales—and money seems to be no object—but they need a week or so to get things in order."

"It's difficult for me to match their bids, but at the same time, the fishermen are worried about letting their last whale escape, too."

He said Marineland had offered "more than $20,000" for the beast, which is about 20 feet long and perhaps 9,000 pounds in weight.

It is trapped by a series of nets strung off a reef. He thinks the little whale escaped during high tide, when the net perhaps floated off the bottom at one corner.

The one remaining impressed him plenty, however. "It's really something, that whale. It's one thing to sit down here and talk about it—but to go up there and see that magnificent animal, a dorsal fin four feet high."

Whether they get the whale or not, one thing is decided: they are going ahead with construction of a suitable pen at the Undersea Gardens.

"We have to have the pen ready," said Mr. White, "if not for this one, for something else. You can never tell when something like this is going to happen."
